Posts in Arctic Dependent Upon Disabled Anyox

Vancouver Steamer Carries Supplies for Northern Settlements—Is Moored Alongside Iceflow Awaiting Arrival of U.S. Cutter Northland —Leak Is Temporarily Patched

POINT BARROW, Alaska, July 28 (AP).—Moored alongside a large ice floe near the Arctic ice pack, 200 miles southeast of here, the small wooden trading vessel Anyox wirelessed today that "no immediate danger" was in sight from a bad leak, and the arrival of the coast guard cutter Northland was awaited.

Patches have been set on the hull, the message said, and the pumps were being worked by the crew of twenty-one men.

The Northland, racing North from Smismaref Inlet, was expected to arrive some time late this afternoon, or tonight.

No mention was made of any damage to cargo. The Anyox, a 1,000-top ship, was under the command of Captain D. B. Johnson, of Vancouver, and was sailing North through the Bering Sea to trading posts.

TRADERS WAITING

With any serious damage to the ship which will make it unable to visit trading posts in the Canadian Arctic, shipping men here pointed out severe hardships will be worked on the trading posts. They have been awaiting their yearly supplies.

The Anyox is under charter to the Hudson's Bay Company.

Ice conditions are severe in the Far North this year, and it appears here that Point Barrow may be icelocked in the same way it was two years ago, when no supply ship could put in here until late in August.

FIND NARCOTICS ON C.P.R. SHIP

Fine of Over $50,000 Imposed by Customs at Honolulu

HONOLULU, July 28 (AP).—Narcotics valued at $50,000 were seized on the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Canada, when she docked here last night, and the owners of the contraband were fined $50,500, today, by J. Walter Doyle, collector of customs. The fine was slightly more than $30 for each of 1,620 ounces discovered in the crew's laundry.

Lo Fat Sau, Chinese steward, was held on a charge of attempting to smuggle the narcotics. Officers said Lo confessed ownership. He said it was destined for Vancouver, B.C., but authorities doubted this when they found, in his quarters, the name of a Honoluiu Chinese who, they said, was identified with the opium trade here.

Officials were notified at noon, Thursday, by the liner, that a suspicious-looking sampan was following it. The coastguard cutter, Itasca, halted the sampan off Kauai, and arrested the crew which, officers said, was signaling the liner with a bucket. The crew was released today.

ALEXANDRIA, Ont., July 28 (CP).—Two persons were injured, five barns were wrecked, and the entire district was plunged into darkness for the night when hydro electric poles were blown down as a terrific windstorm swept through here.

Marriage Brings New Prosperity

MONTREAL, July 28 (CP).—From records of the city of Montreal: "A Montrealer, seventy-three, who enjoyed direct relief from 1930 to 1933, was cut off this month because of the rule barring bachelors from direct relief. So he got married. Today he is back on the direct relief list and his lady friend with him."

Eggs Costly When Thrown At Baritone

HOLLYWOOD, July 28 (AP).—It cost Miss Jane Thomas $25 at $5 an egg today for hurling them at the ponderous David Hutton, estranged husband of Aimee Semple McPherson, during a stage appearance last night.

"It was just an impulse of the moment," the pretty twenty-nine-year old stenographer told the court.

"I know it was none of my business what he did, but when he said: 'Ladies and gentleman, I'm glad to be in the City of Angels, you know I married an angel'—I just couldn't stand the so-called baritone, and I let him have it."

Miss Thomas denied she was paid for the egg-throwing. She is not a member of the Angelus Temple.

DIRECT APPEAL TO PRESIDENT

Leaders of Hollywood Unions Ask for Government Action in Strike

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., July 28 (AP).—A direct appeal for Government action in the strike of 5,000 workers in Hollywood's major motion picture studios was made today to President Roosevelt by leaders of the five affected unions.

Telegrams protesting against the possession or display of "N.I.R.A." emblems by the motion picture companies involved in the strike, or by theatres affiliated with them or using their product, were dispatched to the President and General Hugh S. Johnson, National Recovery Act administrator.

The appeal was made after union leaders accepted the offer of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, organization of actors, directors and writers, to act as mediator in the walkout called two weeks ago by sound technicians at the Columbia Studios. Allied trades joined in a sympathetic strike.

Representatives of the producers, notified the unions had accepted the academy offer, said they had not been notified officially, but the academy board of directors said the offer had been sent union officials and producers simultantously. Until official ratification has been received, producers said, no statement will be issued.

CULBERTSON HAS LEAD IN MATCH

American Bridge Expert Halts Game When Partner's Hand Is Exposed

LONDON, July 28 (AP).—The American contract bridge team, led by Ely Culbertson, forged rapidly ahead of their English opponents today, ending the first night's play 4,810 points to the good.

Culbertson's team is playing an English four, headed by Lindsay Mundy, who challenged the Americans after their victory several days ago, which won them the Charles M. Schwab Trophy.

The score at the conclusion of the first day's play of the match was America, 22,730 points; England, 17,920.

Culbertson figured in a unique incident when it was discovered, after hours of play, he could see the cards of his partner, Theodore A. Lightner, reflected in a huge mirror. He called a halt in the play and a screen was placed around the reflector.

World Police to War on Criminal Being Organized

International Force to Have Headquarters in America and Europe—Formed at Conference in Chicago While Sensational Kidnappings Still Puzzling United States Authorities

CHICAGO, July 28 (AP).—Police of several nations organized, tonight, the "International World Police," to chase the criminal from his haunts over the globe. The new international organization was formed at a meeting of American, Canadian and European police officials attending conferences sponsored by Barron Collier, special deputy police commissioner of New York; the International Police Conference and the International Association of Chiefs of Police.

Two headquarters will be established, one probably at Washington and the other at either Geneva or Vienna.

The purpose of the new organization is "to expedite police information pertaining to international crime and international criminals." "It is in fact," the statement continued, "a service bureau set up to collect from and supply to all recognized police bodies all data pertaining to international crime and international criminals."

Tomorrow night the international police expect to select officers and get down to the detailed business of organization.

PROBLEMS UNSOLVED

NEW YORK, July 28 (AP).—"The International World Police" was formed in Chicago tonight to aid in ferreting out haunts of criminals, while police and Federal authorities in the United States sought victims of two sensational kidnappings and a third abduction was reported.

Two men, Charles F. Urschel, Oklahoma City oil millionaire, and John J. O'Connell, Jr., of Albany, N.Y., apparently were still in the hands of their abductors.

Annual Flower Show Officially Opened At Willows Grounds

Display of Exhibits From Amateur Gardeners Attracts Large Gathering—Judging Completed and List of Awards Announced

THE tenth annual flower show of the Victoria Horticultural Society was officially opened at 3 o'clock, yesterday afternoon, by His Worship Mayor David Leeming in the presence of a large gathering of citizens from Victoria and other parts of the district.

In opening the two-day show, the Mayor referred to the fact that this year in Victoria was what might be termed the rose year. Most of the professional and amateur gardeners, he said, had produced blooms this year that were far beyond the average. "There seems to be something in the soil here that makes it possible to produce flowers that are unequaled in any other part of the world," His Worship stated.

The Mayor was introduced by H. Whiteoak, F.R.H.S., president of the Victoria Horticultural Society, who gave a short address. Others on the platform were: D. D. McTavish, vice-president; Fred Landsberg, Dr. A. G. Price, E. M. Whyte, P. R. Leighton, and F. E. Boulter, secretary-treasurer.

The judging was all completed before the show was opened, therefore, visitors had an opportunity of noting the prize winners.

BEAUTIFUL DISPLAYS

The non-competitive displays were features of the show, especially those exhibited by the city parks committee taken from the nurseries at Beacon Hill Park. One of the main attractions was the lily pond at the entrance to the building. In this pond there was a miniature "monkey" of root from which ferns were growing, and it was suspended by wire and revolved over a small fountain. There were other fine displays, which included the McTavish gladioli exhibit, one from the Rockhome Gardens, a pool

CANADIAN DELEGATES GIVE WARM DENIAL TO RUSSIAN CHARGES ON LUMBER COSTS

Issue Statement at London Pointing Out Falsity of Soviet Representative's Statement About Production Expenses — Moscow-Controlled Timber Not Marketed in Orderly Manner

Offer to Undersell Market Cited as Evidence of Plan

LONDON, July 8 (AP).—The Canadian delegation at the World Economic Conference, today, issued a statement challenging the correctness of a number of the statements of a Russian delegate who replied several days ago to charges of Hon. E. N. Rhods, Canadian Minister of Finance, that Russian timber competed unfairly on the world markets.

The Russian delegate, A. V. Ozersky, had characterized the minister's charges as baseless.

The Canadian statement took note of a declaration by Ozersky that in the Soviet Union there are no such costs of production as unnecessary advertising, watered stock, nor unproductive expenditure in the shape of excessive directors' fees, by replying:

TEXT OF REPLY

"The Canadian delegation replies that none of the items entered into the cost of production of Canadian timber, nor under the pressure of present competition could they be said to exist in any of the great timber-producing countries.

"The plain fact is Russian timber is controlled by the state and can therefore be sold for what it will fetch.

"Secondly, it is produced either by forced labor or by labor working on a standard much below that of other timber-producing countries.

"Thirdly, the timber is sold not by an orderly process of marketing, but with a view to disposing of huge quantities at whatever price is necessary to effect bulk sales. Only these conditions could make possible the operation of the so-called "fall" clause under which the Soviet have undertaken to sell its timber at lower prices than its competitors whatever those prices may be.

"The result of these methods," the declaration continued, "is best shown by their effects on the exports of leading timber-producing countries. During the past five years every country has recorded a heavy decline in shipments to the United Kingdom and other markets, while the Soviet alone registered a large increase."

BRIDGE BILL IS EXPLAINED

B.C. Fully Protected in Ladner Pact, States Acting-Premier Pooley

Acting-Premier Pooley released, last evening, the Government's reply to New Westminster appeals for appointment of a royal commission to investigate affairs concerning the Ladner Bridge Amendment Act, 1933, and its subsequent agreement. The reply brands the requests as unconstitutional, and asserts that the people of British Columbia have been fully protected by the terms of the legislation and the agreement entered into between the bridge concern and the Province.

Detailed reasons were given, pointing to provision for a British Columbia first mortgage on all the assets of the bridge, return of all advances, with interest, and the optional right to acquire the structure, if desired by the Province. The reply makes a comparative analysis of toll charges under Fraser and Ladner schemes, and refutes any suggestion of precipitate action in connection with the whole affair.

The Government's explanation cites authorities to show that the request for a royal commission to investigate the acts of Parliament and of the Executive Council is unconstitutional, and cannot be granted. It states, in part:

ACT OF LEGISLATURE

"The request made is subversive of all principles of constitutional and representative government under British principles. To admit or concede to such a request would place Parliament and the Executive Government elected by the people at large, at the mercy of any local political wave of hysteria, and render unsafe and unstable the conduct of public affairs. Parliament is the primary court which shall pass judgment on the actions of the Executive Government—and the court of appeal from the judgment of Parliament is the people."

Dealing with the merits of the case, the reply states the Ladner bill received a great deal of consideration by the Government, and was fully discussed. The bill was Following his death an autopsy was performed by Dr. R. B. Hare, who reported a punctured lung and internal hemmhorage had caused death, and preliminary inquest was adjourned until August 8.

B.C. Municipalities Weather Heaviest Year in Experience

Civic Population of 519,823 Confined in 987,461 Acres Has Annual Budget of $31,013,520 —Administrations Are Praised

PRAISE for the manner in which British Columbia municipalities are measuring up to their burdens is generously accorded in the annual report of Robert Baird, inspector of British Columbia municipalities, released yesterday, by Acting-Premier Pooley.

"The year past was one in which the municipalities carried a tremendously heavy burden through the prevailing situation of unemployment; the municipal councils, generally, have had to meet most difficult situations, and under the circumstances the results of the year's work are really a source of considerable satisfaction," Mr. Baird states at the conclusion of the foreword to his report.

COST $31,013,520

Reduction in land assessments by $9,680,084, and in improvements by $11,060,079; reduction in debenture liabilities by $581,099; elimination of new borrowing, save for unemployment relief, and an increase in sinking funds by $721,947, are all noted on the credit side of the record for 1932. Total expenditures for all municipalities combined were $31,-013,520, a reduction by quarter of a million from the year previous, but an increase since 1928 of $3,877,553.

He moved, and now the city is paying $13 a month for his upkeep.

FIREMEN AVERT SERIOUS BLAZE

Cars and Garage Situated Near Mansion on Gorge Road Badly Damaged

What might have been a serious fire was averted last night by quick and efficient work of the city fire department, when a blaze started in the double garage situated some twenty feet from the large mansion occupied by A. C. Ralfs, of 31 Gorge Road.

Two automobiles, a touring and a sedan, were both destroyed by fire, and the garage badly burned. No insurance was carried on either machine.

When the fire apparatus arrived the flames had taken a good hold of the cars and the garage. Flames were leaping high from the roof of the garage, and their reflection on the cloudy sky attracted considerable attention among residents in Victoria West, situated across the Gorge waters from the mansion.

While two firemen played the water over the burning cars, other firemen went into the garage under the protection of the water and pushed the machines into the open to prevent a possible explosion causing the fire to leap to the house. No estimate of the loss can be made until after the damage is inspected in daylight.

While the cause of the blaze could not be definitely determined, it is believed by the firemen that it might have started from a short circuit in one of the cars, as the machines were more badly burned than the garage ported to police he was released early yesterday by kidnappers, who held him captive and forced him to sign three blank cheques. Galle said he believed he had been the victim of a case of mistaken identity.

PRECEDENT FOR LAW

SYRACUSE, N.Y., July 28 (AP).—If New York State legislators decide to enact a law providing the death penalty for kidnappers, as hes been urged, they will have precedent in the colony's first English laws, and precedent is dear to the legal mind.

On March 1, 1665—269 years ago—were promulgated the Duke of York's laws, which named twelve offences for which the death penalty was inflicted. One of them was kidnapping. It read:

"If any person forcibly stealeth or carry away any man or mankind, he shall be put to death."

The amount of damage done has not been determined. On June 29 a series of earth tremors of considerable intensity were reported at Dutch Harbor, on Unalaska Island in the Aleutians. The area is noted for volcanic activity, particularly that of Mount Shishaldin on Unimak Island

TWO DIE IN DEATH PACT

Prominent Business Man Is Found Shot—Seattle Shocked

SEATTLE, July 28.—The "mystery of the man and the furcoat" was disclosed by death, today, when Boyd G. Goebel, sixty, merchandise broker, and Mrs. E. Ritchie, about thirty, were found slain in what police said was a murder-suicide pact. J. George Yamomoto, hotel proprietor, said he was "the man" and she the "fur coat" that had baffled hotel employees for three years, during which they carried on a clandestine affair in the establishment.

The police missing persons bureau was seeking Goebel at the request of his partner, when the homicide squad, searching the room in which the two bodies were, found this note:

LONG PLANNED

"To whom it may concern:

"This pact has been mutually agreed upon as being the better way out of a tangled condition, of which we are equally responsible; and each has agreed to end it all rather than face the scandal which would be the ultimate result. The matter has been discussed for some time past, and finally agreed to.

"B.G.G.
"E.R."

The hotel manager told them of the illicit romance, lasting three years, in which the main, registering for "Mr. and Mrs. Anderson, Spokane," and the woman, who always wore a costly fur coat, met once a week, always engaging room number three, concealing their identities carefully, so that they were called merely "the man and the fur coat."

MENTIONED HUSBAND

Yamomoto entered room three to make the bed, and found Goebel lying on it, his mouth acid burned and a bullet hole under his heart. Face down on the floor, garbed all in white, lay Mrs. Ritchie, a blue bullet wound in her forehead, just at the rim of her trim white beret.

A post script to the note asked that her husband be notified, and gave his address, but police had difficulty in learning his first name or finding him.

The exchange of programmes is a co-operative step and is without cost to the commission.

The United States end of the exchange will commence about October 1.

FIRES RAGING IN INTERIOR

St. Eugene Mission Endangered—Passenger Train Is Delayed

NELSON, July 28 (CP).—Mountain forest fires in this district were held in check today when the wind lessened, although a serious situation still prevailed in Coryell Canyon, near Cascade, where telegraph poles were razed, disrupting communications.

The Coryell conflagration held up for several hours an eastbound passenger train which finally, however, succeeded in reaching Nelson.

The fire in the Cranbrook area, which had been rushing toward St. Eugene Mission, has been placed under control at St. Mary's River and the mission saved from menace. The settlement of Lardeau was within half a mile of a raging fire sweeping along Lake Kootenay driven by winds.

In the Beaverdell area, along the Provincial Highway and the Canadian Pacific Railway, flames were eating their way through bush country, while Goose Creek reported a serious conflagration.

Reporter Fails to Get Story of White Woman in Jungle

Gordon Sinclair Watches Pretty American Girl Go Ashore Alone in Wilds of Burma 300 Miles From Nearest Town

KATHA, North Burma.—Wrapped in a Navajo blanket and with a small bag of rice as a pillow, a mystery girl sleeps somewhere tonight. Perhaps in a drizzle-splashed field, perhaps in the shadow of a pagoda, perhaps in the corner of a rat-infested godown or in an open jungle.

An American girl—beautiful, alone, aloof, and very, very independent.

With the Irrawaddy cluttered with drift logs, mud, torn branches, bits of broken hut, occasional rafts and whole islands of floating hyacinth brought down on the crest of melting Himalayan snows, the mail steamer chunked and thumped southward while chatter and barter made third-class decks hum with blather and argument.

The ticket collector, his oily hair done up in a neat little bun, pattered along the decks clanging a school bell. In his path was a folding deck chair and in that chair, her curly chestnut hair falling down to the deck, sat the mystery girl.

The Chittagong circled her, clanged his bell, made sure she was a white woman and no freak, then fled for the skipper.

"Mem sahib on deck," he reported a bit breathlessly. "Mem sahib? She's made a mistake. Show her to second class."

The boy went away clanging his bell, and soon came back bearing the gir's ticket. Deck passage. That's what the ticket said.

MADE NO MISTAKE

We went out. The tumbled coils of chestnut hair flipped romantically in the river breeze. The girl was pretty and pinkish, about twenty-eight. She wore blue dungaree overalls, heavy clod-hoppers and a thick belt. At her feet were a couple of bundles and a vacuum bottle.

"Haven't you made a mistake, miss?" the skipper asked. "No, I have not."

"But we can't carry white women on the deck. It isn't done. It . . ." "Listen, mister, you can carry me, you are carrying me, and you'll continue to carry me."

"Excuse me, miss we cannot. But don't misunderstand me. Go into second class. We're not here to see people stuck."

"Stuck? I'm not stuck. You're a public carrier. I'm a passenger. I've paid my fare and I'm occupying the space I'm entitled to. I don't want second class.

"Are you writing a book or something, adventure business and all?"

"No, I'm not. I'm neither asking nor accepting favors. I'm one of the few creatures in all this world who is doing precisely and exactly what I want to do, neither more nor less."

"But do you realize, miss, there are no conveniences for deckers, no baths—what are you going to eat?"

SHE WOULDN'T STARVE

She pointed to one of those portable Burmese beaneries off in a corner. "Curry and rice at four cents a meal, that's what I'll eat. And as to baths, there are many women here. What difference does the color of skin make? I'll do as they do."

Her chestnut hair gently flicked in the breeze. She was a pretty girl, plump in her shapeless dungarees. She spoke with a soft, Southern burr to her voice, and paid no attention to the astonished Burmese who crowded around, hopefully expecting a scene.

"You're American, miss?" "Yes." "I must inform you that you will be reported to your consul. Meantime, I urge you to accept, when needed, the second class accommodations. Good afternoon, miss." "So long, mister."

The captain went away. I waited, smelling a story; but the first peep out of me brought devastating results. She looked at me as if I was something that had just moved in a piece of cheese.

"Git," she sneered. "Back among your mollycoddle mob of stuffed-shirted good-for-nothings. I got no time for softies."

Was I mortified! Hi de hi.

ASTONISHES EVERYONE

Her ticket was for Mandalay, and no stop-over allowed. But at sundown, with deep shadows creeping across a great crescent in the river, the girl did up her hair in a high, brown pompadour, stuffed it under a battered topee, strung her bundles around her, picked up the deck chair and strode magnificently ashore like one of those heroic statues you see labelled "Pioneer Mother." All she needed was a tow-headed wide-eyed boy clinging to her strong hand.

She slipped and stumbled up the mud bank, the topee fell gawkily aside; but she picked herself up and marched on with her head high while 500 curious eyes bored into her back.

"Beats me," the skipper exclaimed. "Me, too, but by gosh, she's got courage."

"Courage? She's flirting with the grave. She doesn't speak a word of Burmese. There isn't a place she can stop at under 300 miles. What's she going to eat, where's she going to eat, where's she going to get sleep, and how's she going to get out of here?"

We all wondered. I'd sure like to know. I'd like to meet that girl. Perhaps she will see this in print and send her address. I'd certainly like to write her story.

B.C. MUNICIPALITIES WEATHER HEAVIEST YEAR IN EXPERIENCE

ber 31 last, were $142,017,677, of which the total debenture debt was $129,332,791. Total sinking funds were $29,928,-209, against requirements of $33,416,-429. The net shortage in sinking funds increased by $1,899,017, and was largely contributed to by a few areas. Surplus sinking funds, reducing the group shortage, were $792,449, contributed by thirty municipalities.

MUCH IN ARREARS

Arrears of taxes for the combined areas amounted to $8,581,605, compared with $3,465,532 in 1928, and have risen steadily year by year in that period. Tax sale lands held at the end of 1932 were valued at $9,311,721.

Taxes, as distinct from non-tax receipts, levied last year were $20,-710,926. Gross receipts were $28,-111,219, including land taxes of $16,-926,703; trades licences, $674,596; road taxes, $22,552; poll tax, $140,-717; dog tax, $41,911; fines, $138,552; Government grants for schools, $1,645,178; Government grant on liquor profits, $618,025; Government grant on motor licences, $569,612; Government grants on racing receipts, $167,519; receipts from public utilities, $3,901,668, and sundry receipts, $3,264,186.

Total expenditures outweighed total receipts by $2,902,301, the combined expenditures of all municipalities being $31,013,520, and the combined receipts $28,111,219.

BILL OF COSTS

In the municipal bill of costs, interest on debentures, exclusive of schools and public utilities, cost $4,083,055, and sinking funds and installments of principal on the same basis, $2,057,623; roads and streets, $1,904,528; street lighting, $467,644; parks, $377,359; sewers, $504,878; fire protection, $1,236,560; public health, $147,889; administration of justice, $1,383,706; schools, including interest and sinking fund payments, $7,360,451; interest on temporary loans, $677,021; donations and grants, $257,861; council salaries, $109,325; salaries and office expenses, $1,082,960, and sundry expenditures not otherwise listed, $5,728,480. Cities spent $25,325,422, and districts $5,594,959.

Comparing 1924 and 1932, streets are costing less; and fire protection, police, health and schools considerably more. Taxes brought $13,718,-940 in 1924, and $16,926,703 in 1932. Government grants to schools had advanced from $1,325,567 in 1924, to $1,645,178 in 1932. Fines and court costs brought about half the 1924 total, and trades licences $69,000 more last year.

BORROWINGS LIGHT

Money by-laws approved in 1932 totaled $1,355,951, many of these being directly or indirectly for unemployment relief. Debentures issued directly in respect to the Unemployment Relief Act, presumably as security for Government advances, totaled $77,844.

The report gives concise tables on public utilities, waterworks and other civic operations. Waterworks have an estimated value of $19,747,-392, with a total operating cost of $2,566,907, or slightly in excess of their revenues, at $2,521,016.

Electric light plants were held to the value of $2,101,454; and sundry utilities to the value of $1,083,791, including irrigation works; gas, water and light plants; ferries; one street railway, and one telephone service.

CAKE FOR COURTENAY

In cities, Courtenay on Vancouver Island had the lowest mill rate, 20.5; and Prince George, in the North, the highest, 65 mills on the dollar. Among districts, the lowest was Glenmore, 10 mills; and the highest, North Vancouver District, at 65 mills. Half a dozen villages had a mill rate of 10 mills, and the highest village rate was 16 mills. The Victoria City mill rate in 1932 was 41.5, well in the moderate group.

Mill rates alone, it is realized, convey little, unless taken in conjunction with the level of assessments. Despite that, there is an annual competition to maintain the lowest mill rate. Inspector Baird notes a general reduction in the rates in most areas, coupled with reduction in assessments.

COLLECTIONS OFF

Referring to collection of taxes, the report states:

"The collection of taxes in 1932 was generally very unsatisfactory. The tax-paying ability of property owners has undoubtedly been at the lowest point in many years. At the recent session of the Legislature, a measure of relief was afforded to the taxpayers in the form of the reduction of the penalty on unpaid taxes, and also in powers given to municipal councils to rebate the interest and penalties already imposed."

Five municipalities, it is noted, defaulted in their obligations and were placed in the hands of commissioners by the Government. Promise of good results are indicated in all five areas, the report states.

The year 1932 showed the first reduction in total municipal outlays in five years. In 1928, the combined municipalities of the province had a budget of $27,135,967. In 1929, this was $29,022,247; in 1930, it crept up to $29,745,727; in 1931, to $31,258,230, and last year the civic bill of costs decreased slightly, $31,013,520.

PREFER ALBERTA TO DOING WORK

Calgary Complains B.C. Policy Is Driving Transients East

CALGARY, July 28 (CP).—Following British Columbia's introduction of "no work, no relief" policy, Alberta cities and towns are being flooded by unemployed transients from the Coast province, according to relief officials here, tonight. The men are leaving British Columbia rather than go to work in relief camps, it is declared.

According to police, 148 men arrived here from the West aboard freight trains, Thursday, and 111 today. About eighty-seven arrived in Edmonton, Thursday, from the West, and sixty-two today.

"Madam, if you buy this car, we will put your initials on free."

"Yes, but my husband says it's not the initial cost that matters—it's the upkeep."

ADULTS AND BOYS SAME

Island Author Compares Mentality of Canadian Boys and Englishmen

MONTREAL, July 28.—In some ways Canadian and American boys have a mentality on the same level as adult Englishmen, according to Major Swinton, Canadian short-story writer, of Vancouver Island, who sailed in the Canadian Pacific liner Montrose for England, where he plans to finish a novel.

Major Swinton said he had held, and still holds, the opinion that school boys in Great Britain are more mature mentally, but has changed his opinion to some extent following the reception of short stories written for adolescent audiences in the United States by English magazines.

MEN AND BOYS

"For instance," he said to reporters, "several yarns written for the American Boy, which appeal to teen-age youngsters, have been republished without change by adult English magazines." He scouted with horror a suggestion that English readers were juvenile-minded. "The answer," Major Swinton said, "is that in some respects the North American boy on both sides of the boundary is well-developed. But as regards a general comparison, the English university graduate at twenty-one is a man, while his North American opposite number is still a boy."

PLANS NOVEL

The author's immediate plans go no farther than the little fishing village of Leigh-on-Sea, at the mouth of the Thames, where he will settle down to the production of a novel tentatively titled, "Toward Beauty." Later he hopes to fly to Africa to join Karl von Hoffman, American explorer, and George F. Pierrot, editor of the American Boy. The trio have dark designs of lions and other big game.

Major Swinton, who served in the Canadian artillery during the Great War, declared himself amazed that not one of the eighty-five short stories he has completed since he started writing has been rejected. "It is just luck," he said.

CAPT. G. F. WATE, OF VANCOUVER, PASSES

NORTH VANCOUVER, July 28.—Captain George Francis Wate, seventy-one, mariner, died in hospital today. Previous to making his home here twenty years ago, Captain Wate served about thirty years in command of trans-Atlantic freighters.

Those surviving are: three daughters, Mrs. A. C. Moas, of Cloverdale; Mrs. F. A. McKindy, of Swift Creek, B.C.; Mrs. J. Kelst, of Vancouver; and two sons: G. S. Wate, of Vancouver, and T. S. Wate, of Victoria.

Funeral services will be conducted Monday.

ESCAPING PRISONER STUCK IN THE WALL

BECKLEY, W. Va., July 28 (AP).—Bulky George Fine, twenty, tried to follow Lester Bevins, twenty-two, tall and slender, to freedom through a hole they dug in the Raleigh County jail wall. He stuck tight. Another prisoner called the jailer. While prison officials pulled from the inside, firemen outside pushed—successfully.

BIG EMPLOYERS ARE HESITANT

Are Not Rushing Forward to Pledge Adherence to Roosevelt Code

WASHINGTON, July 28 (AP).—Thousands of employers over the United States came to postoffices, today, to sign voluntary agreements with President Roosevelt to raise wages and shorten working hours, but many large business organizations were reported moving more slowly.

Strongly flavoring the reports coming in from scores of postmasters were indications an interpretation of Section 7 of Roosevelt's proposed agreement was being eagerly awaited. That section provides workers receiving above the minimum wage shall be paid the same for shorter hours and equitable readjustment shall be made of pay schedules in the higher brackets.

UNFAIRNESS ALLEGED

Many employers have contended a mandatory readjustment of the upper scales would penalize industries that have imposed smaller pay cuts in recent years.

The return of Hugh S. Johnson, administrator, from Detroit, was awaited before a final decision is reached. Flying unexpectedly to the Michigan city, Johnson conferred with directors of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, and emerged today with a proposed code for the industry, embodying a forty-five-hour week and minimum wages of from 40 to 43 cents an hour.

Virtually the entire industry, aside from Ford Motor Company, was represented at the conference, and officials of this company said its attitude would not be announced until after the code had been studied.

OTHER AGREEMENTS

In addition to this code, which will be submitted soon for hearing, agreements from three other groups were presented. These were for legitimate theatres, southwestern bituminous coal operators, and retail stores.

For coal, a delegation of operators from Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma submitted an agreement proposing the open shop for labor; and another representation of non-union operators, with fields reaching from Central Pennsylvania to Tennessee, were completing an agreement. This also contained an open shop clause.

Before the Farm Administration, a code of fair competition designed to raise wages and shorten working hours, was presented, today, by the Millers' National Federation, representing about 90 per cent of the commercial flour-producing capacity. The code would affect 25,000 persons.

CANADIAN BANK FIRMLY BASED

Toronto Professor Gives Reasons for Strength of System to Californians

SAN FRANCISCO, July 28.—Reasons "Why Canadian banks don't fail," were told the Commonwealth Club today by a Canadian banking expert, Dr. Lorne T. Morgan, assistant professor of money and banking at the University of Toronto, visiting lecturer at the University of California, who outlined them thus:

"Because they are highly capitalized and powerful.

"Because they are essentially conservative in their policies.

"Because the relationship between the central Government and the banks is a close one.

"Because there is a maximum of co-operation and a minimum of competition between them."

"Finally, because the Canadian banker is first, last and always, a banker."

Elasticity and adaptibility of the Canadian system were stressed.

"Every ten years the Bank Act is revised," Dr. Morgan said. He pointed out the system "has provided a fairly equitable distribution of funds throughout the country, has distributed risks widely, has minimized the danger of runs and has made possible an economy in reserve impossible with the unit system of banking."

PARLIAMENT ADJOURNS

LONDON, July 28 (AP).—Parliament adjourned, today, for the Summer recess, not to reassemble until November 7, unless the Government deems that public interest requires an earlier meeting.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

By Ely Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

LIGHT OPENING BIDS

It has always been my belief that minimum hands should be opened at the contract table in either the first or second position, whereas, after previous passes, players either third or fourth hand should not open without slightly stronger hands. This rule is modified to a certain extent as applied to the third position by the advisability of establishing the bidding defence against a possible strong hand held by the player who has yet to speak. For example, I should advise opening the bidding third hand, after two passes, with some such holding as

Spades A K Q x x x

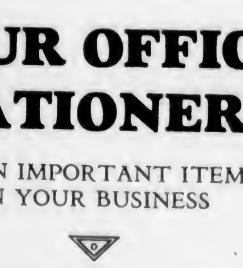

and with practically nothing else in the hand.

Some bridge players recently adopted the plan of passing light opening bids first and second hand and opening on busts as third and fourth hand. This policy against good players in the long run is bound to prove a losing one. In some cases it even pays to shade the requirements for an opening bid. However, this should not go too far.

In the days of a former international match, I was able to make a game on one hand by reason of a light opening bid, which, where the British players sat North and South, was not made. The hand was:

East, dealer.

East and West vulnerable.

The hand was played in a team-of-four match, one team representing America and the other England. In Room 1, where I played South, and Mr. Theodore A. Lightner North, the bidding went:

(Figures after bids refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

East	South	West	North
Pass	1NT (1)	Pass	3NT (2)
Pass	Pass	Pass

1. While South's hand is not of commanding strength, it is, in my opinion, too strong to pass. It contains two and a half plus honor tricks. North and South are not vulnerable, and East and West are.

2. North has a balanced distribution and three honor tricks. Perhaps current usage would suggest a bid of only two no trump. However, even if this were the bid and South then passed, a valuable part-score would be made, compared with the blank score made by the players who failed to bid at all.

In the other room, two representatives of England were seated North and South, and the hand was passed by all players. East, of course, did not have a sound opening bid vulnerable, as the hand contains only two and a half honor tricks and extremely unfavorable distribution.

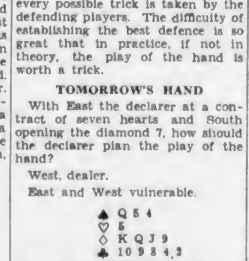

The contract of three no trump on this hand could be beaten with an opening diamond lead, as East and West must in that event make three diamond tricks, the ace of clubs and ace of spades. However, in bridge it will rarely be found that every possible trick is taken by the defending players. The difficulty of establishing the best defence is so great that in practice, if not in theory, the play of the hand is worth a trick.

TOMORROW'S HAND

With East the declarer at a contract of seven hearts and South opening the diamond 7, how should the declarer plan the play of the hand?

West, dealer.

East and West vulnerable.

The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

Rescue Boy From Dangerous Ledge

LIVINGSTON, Mont., July 28 (AP).—Charles Dixon, twelve, of Medicine Hat, Alberta, was rescued today, from a ledge, high above Tower Falls, in Yellowstone National Park, by Jerry Thrailkill, news editor of the St. Joseph, Mo., Gazette, and Dr. R. H. Hurst, of King City, Mo.

When the boy became imprisoned on the ledge by loose gravel and dirt, Thrailkill tied a rope around a tree, lowered himself as far as possible, then threw the boy a rope which he had tied around his body. Dr. Hurst, with the aid of another rope, pulled both the boy and the newspaper man to the top of the canyon wall.

SPECULATION AND RECOVERY

Mr. R. B. Bennett says that if President Roosevelt wants "to save the world" he will "close the New York Stock Exchange." That is perhaps an exaggeration. Probably what Mr. Bennett meant was that such a closure should be a part of the recovery programme in the United States, which is a programme for Americans alone. The truth is that the vulture of speculation is abroad in that land. There are newly-lighted flames in the spectacular rise in prices and the army of dupes is growing in volume from day to day. Those dupes have learned no lesson from the experiences of 1929. Thousands upon thousands of people are ready once more to offer themselves as financial sacrifices on the altar of speculation. What is happening in the United States is that the New York Stock Exchange is acting in a defeatist way. It may very well be the cause of putting a period to Mr. Roosevelt's recovery programme.

There is no doubt that Mr. Roosevelt is alarmed over the rising tide of speculation. Prices on Wall Street are not justified by anything that has happened so far. Action has been taken to check speculation in grain. No action is foreshadowed to put an end to the Wall Street gamble. Mr. Roosevelt is engaged on the task of creating a new psychological attitude among the American people. Possibly it is as a result of the success he is achieving that Wall Street has availed itself of the opportunity to kindle anew the flames of speculative fervor. Business recovery, however, depends on "real" values, not "fictitious" ones, being established. People have been saving money during the depression. That money when emerging from its hiding places should be invested in productive effort, not thrown into the maw of speculation. It is the speculator who, more than anyone else, can stay the tide of prosperity, can indeed translate it into ruin. The United States should know this from its experience of the last three years.

CRIME ON TWO CONTINENTS

The Chief Constable of Edinburgh has been attending a convention of Police Chiefs at Chicago and when interviewed he gave Americans some advice as to methods for suppressing crime. He does not believe in a wishy washy policy of meeting the crime menace. "Don't mollycoddle your convicts," he says. "Meet violence with violence. If they want to shoot it out, shoot it out; but be sure that they are the ones who get killed." He is naturally amazed at the wave of kidnapping in the United States, and probably more amazed still that it should be allowed to continue, for he describes the practice as the "most vicious, most despicable and most atrocious crime of all." Kidnapping is practically unknown in Europe. In Great Britain it is unknown.

Recently figures concerning crime and prisons in Great Britain were submitted to Parliament. It was reported by the Home Secretary that a large part of the time of the police is taken up with minor offences, most of which are connected with motor cars. With the exception of traffic offences there has been a decrease in almost all classes of non-indictable offences, including drunkenness, assault, begging, sleeping out and offences against the Poor Law. There have been increases in cases of house-breaking and shop-breaking but no increase in the offence of burglary. The daily average population of prisons was 11,200 in 1931 and 12,800 in 1932. This increase included an increase of 300 in the Borstal population. The report has the following to say:

"I have read wild accounts of robbery with violence and of cars being held up by motor bandits. In fact, there have been very harrowing tales, and I have no doubt that the circulation of certain organs of the Press has been increased owing to the fact that there have been very large placards in connection with these cases. But what are the actual facts? The facts are, so far as the Metropolitan Police District is concerned—and this extends thirty miles across and includes very many miles of country roads—that actually there has only been one case which has been brought to the notice of the police in the last two years of a motorist having been held up by a motor bandit on the road."

SOCIALISM AND DICTATORSHIP

Socialism would be impossible without a dictatorship either by an individual or a junta. It would be possible only, otherwise, by the unanimous consent of all the governed, and that is an unthinkable condition with men's minds what they are and because of the spirit of freedom which rules in so many hearts. The question of Socialism and dictatorship is being debated in Socialistic organs of Great Britain. On the road in the search for political power the Socialists are being told that they need not worry about "small details" like free speech and freedom of opinion. Those are described as having been very useful in the past, but—"what need to worship forever at that shrine?". Obviously, therefore, a dictatorship is in view if Socialism gets into the political saddle. Mr. Morgan Jones, a Labor Member of Parliament, is somewhat perturbed at this prospect. Writing in The Labor Magazine, he says:

"Now, where are we? Are we Democrats or are we not? Can there be any kind of affinity between Dictatorship and Democracy? One's experience leads one to the conclusion that many 'comrades' would not be averse from dictatorship so long as it is of the kind they favor. It is the other fellow's practice of it that is so objectionable. If Churchill, let us say, put himself at the head of a Hitlerite movement and proposed to crush out all forms of Socialist, Labor, Communist, Trade Union or Co-operative endeavor, what a howl there would be. But the crushing of every Churchillian endeavor by a Socialist dictator would be—what? In a dictatorship there are two classes: the dictators and the rest. The dictator dictates. The rest are dictated to. In a dictatorship the dictator cannot pretend to be thinking with anybody. He thinks instead of everybody. He does not say to his fellows, 'I will think out these problems in association with you.' He says, 'I will do your thinking for you.' A dictator who does not dictate is not a dictator."

Mr. Jones believes that it is of the essence of citizenship that there should be freedom of criticism. The intelligent citizen wants the right to agree or disagree, to applaud or to condemn, to encourage or to dissaude, to accept or to reject. He cannot have it that way under a dictatorship. It would be no consolation for him to be told that under Socialism everything is being done for the good of the proletariat. Mussolini makes the same claim; so do Hitler, Horthy and the rest. The Socialists in their fight for power have demanded the right of minorities to proclaim their faith without hindrance. Mr. Jones asks if they are to refuse that right when they are in power. "Are we to understand," he asks, "that it is a crime for a powerful capitalist government to jail its enemies (just because they happen to be enemies), and that it would be a virtue in a powerful Socialist Government to do the same thing. In plain terms, are we Democrats or are we not?"

Mr. Humphrey Mitchell, who is the Labor Member of Parliament for East Hamilton, is not giving the theories which the Canadian Co-operative Commonwealth Party advocates a good advertisement, although he is a supporter of that political organization. He has been visiting Russia and in a message from Germany to Mayor Peebles of Hamilton, he says: "Just arrived from Russia. Conditions there very bad. They are down to rock bottom. Never saw such suffering in my life."

In the House of Commons, Mr. J. S. Woodsworth, M.P., who is leader of the Canadian Commonwealth Federation Party, is easily the most verbose of elected representatives. His new political organization proposes legislation which would lead to a cascade of restrictive laws. The statute books, if the C.C.F. were in power, would become more voluminous than ever and debates in Parliament would add to the already great expense of producing Hansard. Mr. Woodsworth does not believe, with Mr. Franklin Roosevelt, that "the general wisdom of the demand for fewer laws is undeniable."

ECONOMY NECESSARY

Apparently it can now be foreseen that the balance sheet of the last fiscal year, recently terminated, will show a notable improvement in the public finances of the Province of Quebec. The policy of economy practised by the Government has made possible a very appreciable reduction in expenditures, while the improvement in general conditions of recent months has favorably affected provincial revenues. This is news to rejoice the hearts of those who are really interested in the credit of Quebec. Nevertheless, it is easy to realize that for some years to come at least, economy must remain the watchword of the Government. That is the intention of Hon. L. A. Taschereau and his colleagues, to prevent all useless expenditure, without however refusing the credits required by necessary enterprises. Already the Quebec Government has drawn up a programme of public works to assist the unemployed and only the reply of Federal and municipal authorities is awaited to get started. This should not be delayed; the season is somewhat advanced and it would not be too much to use the few remaining months in giving to the unemployed a chance of laying something aside for the Winter.—La Presse, Montreal.

INVINCIBILITY

To launch thy ship on some uncharted sea,
Believing that it must return to thee;

To walk unscathed upon the path of fire,
Through slough to tread, yet feel no touch of mire;

Fearless to face the lion in his den,
And find that beasts have kinder hearts than men;

With haughty head the scaffold to ascend,
Nor flame nor faggot let your spirit bend;

Undaunted fare toward some far-reaching goal—
This is the way, my child, to win your soul.

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

Authority intoxicates.
And makes mere sots of magistrates.
The fumes of it invade the brain,
And make men giddy, proud and vain;
By this the fool commands the wise,
The noble with the base complies;
The sot assumes the role of wit,
And cowards make the base submit.
—Butler.

We suppose it was one of the wise men of ancient days—it may have been Euclid of Alexandria for all we know—who was responsible for circulation of the axiom, "Time is money." You have to go a long way back into history to discover the origin of axioms and jokes, and all the platitudes of wise and humorous men. We have heard it said that all jokes are but variations of one original joke, of even the jokes oft perpetrated at the expense of the hardest and least humorous of mankind, the Aberdonians. Whoever said time was money said something which was as puzzling to the mind of youth as the mathematical problems of Euclid, the great teacher who set his examination papers in the then chief town of Egypt some two thousand years ago. The pyramids of the Pharaohs still endure, but modern mathematicians have made old Euclid "look like thirty cents," if we may be forgiven for falling into modern figures of speech.

In progress of time we managed to gather together somewhere in our mind the hidden meaning of the phrase, "time is money." The moral intended to be conveyed by the ancient saying was that diligent application of time produced money. If time were money in the literal acceptation of the term there would be no depression in the world today, no hunger and no privation, for there are multitudes of people with time on their hands.

If some sage had said that talk was money, that observation might have had some application to the conditions at the present time, although there might have been some difficulty in demonstrating the truth of it. Probably never in the history of the world, certainly never since the days of the ancient Greek philosophers and teachers, when the art of printing had not been discovered, when newspapers had not even been dreamt of, and when all instruction was orally delivered and circulated, has there been such a deluge of talk as there has been during the present year of grace (which of course is merely a description of courtesy). How many conferences have been held during the current year, how many speeches have been delivered—all fuss and froth and some fury—signifying nothing.

There was the World Conference, which labored like the mountain and brought forth nothing, not even a mouse. Then there have been national conferences, municipal conferences, and innumerable social conferences, which produced much talk and passed many resolutions, and instead of the talk producing money, we suspect it must have cost the people who pay taxes a great deal of money. Talk about maratoriums, (now do not write to the editor and tell him the correct word is moratoria) on war debts and mortgages and private obligations, why not have a moratorium on conferences? Why not stop attempting to meddle with the affairs of our neighbors, by passing resolutions and other impertinences, and turn time into money by attending for a while strictly to our own business?

When conferences fail—and we have not heard of one which has been a success—the failure is always attributed to the recalcitrant attributes of certain persons or nations, and instead of producing concord there is a creation of discord. The sum and substance of the whole matter is that there is in the minds of men and of nations jealousy at the idea of any sacrifice of independence. All through the ages nations have fought to attain and maintain their independence and persons have wrought to achieve their individual independence. Human brotherhood is a sublime ideal, but humanity is not yet ready to accept it.

We are ready to accept the belief of our more radical friends that at the back of the revolution in Russia there is the ideal of human brotherhood, under which all men actually are free and equal and everything is held in common, but a system which has to be established by force and maintained through the same instrument is abhorrent to the minds of people who value their independence. That is why we cannot understand the hostile attitude of British Liberalism and radicalism to German Nazism and Italian Fascism and its friendliness to Russian Bolshevism. The Russian system was established in a welter of blood, the establishment of the Italian system was almost bloodless, and the German system was created with comparatively little bloodshed. There may be something to be said for the United States experiment (there can be no doubt that it is an experiment) in National Socialism, for the President seems to have acted in strict accord with the will of the people, and the revolution has been peacefully accomplished. Superficially wise men who write for the newspapers declare that a new force has been let loose in the world and that all the nations must be prepared to govern themselves in accordance with new political and economic circumstances; but men of real wisdom counsel caution lest the new force should prove to be more destructive than constructive.

FOREST DEVASTATION

Sir,—As a visitor from California to Vancouver Island and particularly to the Cowichan Lake district, I have been very much impressed with and horrified at the terrible devastation which the lumbering interests are causing in this beautiful island. For mile upon mile the country has been turned into a barren waste, nothing but burnt stumps with here and there a few worthless willow and maple trees springing up, but not a sign of any young Douglas firs could I see, except in a few spots which had been cleared years ago under the old system of logging. Under the present and so-called improved system of logging not a tree remains, the small and unmerchantable being destroyed with the large, with no sign of young firs growing up to take their place.

It is not so much the destruction of beauty which has impressed me, terrible as that is, but the very serious economic loss to Vancouver Island and to the generations that are to follow us, for, if this condition be permitted to continue this island will become, in the course of time, a devastated waste. As a British subject and a Fellow of the Royal Empire Society of London I am deeply interested in the welfare of Canada and the Empire, may I therefore suggest that steps be taken, before it be too late, to remedy this condition by a system of reforestation such as is now being done, not only in England, but by President Roosevelt in the United States, as well as by many of the lumber companies in California, in the protection of their own interests. I suggest that the present time of economic distress, when so many thousands of men are unemployed and are being paid relief money by the taxpayers, presents an opportunity which should not be missed, for I am sure that these men would rather do some work than be the recipients of charity.

Could not camps be opened in these areas and the men be set to work to replant with Douglas firs the denuded country, being paid a reasonable wage, which in course of time would more than repay for the money expended and bring in millions of new wealth to the province.

I am given to understand that most of the logging is done by American concerns who naturally have no interest in the future welfare of the province, but only in their immediate profits and who will move on to other fields when their work of devastation is completed. May I suggest theefore, that in the granting of lumbering rights to these corporations a provision be made that trees be replanted each year to take the place of those cut as a "sine qua non" to the granting of these rights and that forestry inspectors be appointed to enforce this provision. Whilst the suply of lumber in this province is commonly supposed to be inexhaustable, the experience of other countries has proved this to be a fallacy and which in the course of a generation or two will also be shown to be the case in British Columbia. Surely there is a heavy responsibility resting upon us to leave to our children a heritage such as we have received from our forbears.

INDIAN PIPE

Sir,—In your paper today there is a small article referring to a specimen of the plant "Monotropa uniflora" (Indian Pipe), found by Mrs. Postgate-Fowler at Canoe Cove, near Sidney, and stating that the plant is very rare in these parts.

I have done a lot of botany on the Saanich Peninsula and can assure you that this plant can be found in fair quantity all over this end of Vancouver Island and is not a rarity. Last year it grew exceptionally large and in abundance.

"BLACK BEAUTY"

Sir,—Last week, as I was walking along Yates Street, I was attracted by a signboard outside the Capitol Theatre informing the public that "Black Beauty" was being shown. I immediately thought, what a treat for the children. A step farther on was another board with the announcement that "The Phantom Broadcast" was also being shown and on it as well were photographs depicting a gruesome murder scene. That, of course, spoiled any chances I may have had of taking my children to see the first picture. It is unfortunate that, when a picture like "Black Beauty" was to have been shown the management could not have included another picture more suitable for children. Some day perhaps one of the theatres will put on a show especially adapted to children and give the Victoria youngsters a genuine treat.

REMEDY FOR HORNET STING

Sir,—I understand that there have been many children stung by hornets at the beaches this Summer. There is one remedy which has been used with wonderful effect in such cases. Take a raw onion, cut it and rub the part where the sting is. Every case using this method, to my knowledge, has had instant relief.

This has also been used in case of a person swallowing a hornet or bee, wasp, or any other sting insect, but in this case the onion has been grated, and first the juice has been given, then the pulp.

It is not much hardship to take an onion with you, especially for children.

THE WORD OF GOD

Sir,—I do not think it is generally realized and, apparently, your correspondent, Mr. Claudet, is not aware of the fact that, long before Augustine was commissioned by Pope Gregory to visit Britain in the interests of the Roman Catholic Church, 596 A.D., there was a native British Church, formed after the Eastern or Greek type. This church was well established and thriving before 200 A.D., or about 400 years before the time of Gregory, and was active in missionary work in Europe, sending its representatives even into Italy. It was an independent church, ordaining its own bishops and looking to the Lord Jesus Christ as its only head. The fortunes of this church were clouded under the yoke of the Saxons, at that time heathen; and it was to these heathen Saxons that Augustine was sent. The native church was finally practically obliterated as a national force, but, as a Britisher, I like to remember that at such an early date in the Christian era, our land was favored with an evangelical and evangelizing church.

Your correspondent further states that the New Testament was written by the church under God's inspiration, about two or three hundred years after our Lord. I do not know just what meaning Mr. Claudet attaches to "church." We do know, however, the names and something of the lives of those servants of God who wrote the various parts of the New Testament. We know, of course, that through their personal faith exercised in our Lord, they were members of the church universal just as we may be in the same way now, and that they were inspired of God to write the Holy Scriptures. In this sense we may say that the New Testament was written by the church. Of course, it is an established fact that no part of the New Testament was written later than 100 A.D., not two or three hundred years A.D. as stated by Mr. Claudet.

Mr. Claudet also speaks of further revelations continuing to the present time. I have no doubt in my own mind that the canon of scripture is closed, all that man needs for his eternal welfare and happiness having been revealed to him. But this is not to say that God will not use various of His servants to teach His people spiritual things. But in receiving such, we are responsible to see that what is offered us agrees with Holy Scripture, which is the infallible standard.

HEAR OF CHICAGO ENTERTAINMENT

Members of Victoria Automobile Club Caravan to Enjoy Many Features of World's Fair

Definite word has been received from Chicago of entertaining features to be provided members of Victoria Automobile Club caravan, which is scheduled to leave Victoria, August 7, for the Century of Progress Exposition.

The party will spend three days at the exhibition and will be transported by motor coaches between the grounds and one of Chicago's leading hotels, where members will be lodged during the stay of five days in that city. Three sightseeing trips, covering different sections of Chicago and its suburbs, are planned. Saturday, August 19, has been reserved for the party to attend the musical festival there, when, it is understood, the Kitsilano Boys' Band, of Vancouver, will play for the world championship. During the visits to the fair grounds, dinners will be served at the famous Heidelberg Inn.

"Judging from the number of inquiries being received, the recent change in the plans, providing as it does for the trip to be accomplished in three weeks, and at a reduced cost, is accordingly proving to be popular," states R. R. Webb, club secretary and organizer of the caravan.

"Better arrangements can be made through an agency for parties than can be done independently, but I have received word to the effect that definite reservations for parties must be made at once in order to assure satisfactory and adequate accommodation.

"Therefore, anyone considering a 'trip to the fair' should communicate with me at the Victoria Automobile Club service bureau in the Crystal Garden," Mr. Webb concluded.

Commonwealth Federation Plans to Test Its Theories in This Province

VERNON, July 28 (CP).—British Columbia may be made a testing ground for the working out of Co-operative Commonwealth Federation ideas of government as laid down in the recent conference at Regina, if the federation can gain power in the coming Provincial elections. This was stated by W. A. Pritchard, former reeve of Burnaby, B.C., who spoke here while en route home from the Regina gathering.

MANY CANDIDATES

The federation has already nominated some twenty-five candidates in British Columbia.

Mr. Pritchard stated that L. St. G. Stubbs, former County Court Judge of Manitoba, and C.C.F. candidate in the Federal constituency of Mackenzie, is studying Canadian constitutional law with a view to determining the possibility of British Columbia acting by itself and implementing a considerable proportion of the C.C.F. platform. The question of provincial and Dominion rights arises in any such consideration.

TECHNICAL OPENING

Mr. Pritchard said that the Statute of Westminster conferring complete autonomy on Dominions may afford a technical opening by which C.C.F. control of legislatures might not be as ineffectual as claimed in some quarters.

"For the passing of ultra vires or haywire legislation among all the overseas Dominions, Canada holds the palm," he stated. "Of all the Canadian provinces, British Columbia has been the worst."

NAMES SHERIFF TO BE RECEIVER

Troubles Among East Indians Passed Over by Court to Be Adjusted

The troubles connected with partnership matters between Ditto Singh and Massa Singh, which involved also claims by Partapee, the wife of Ditto Singh, were again before the courts, yesterday morning, when Mr. Justice Murphy took the weekly chambers sitting of the court vacation.

When R. C. Lowe made an application on behalf of one of the litigants, Massa Singh, over the distribution of the crop growing on the premises, which it was alleged was involved in the partnership, he was met by F. C. Elliott, for Ditto Singh, who objected that the situation was one in which it was being attempted to try the action by the method of utilizing affidavits.

His Lordship, however, intervened and declared that he was not going to have the matter fought out before him.

HANDS OF RECEIVER

"I am going to put this in the hands of a receiver," said Mr. Justice Murphy, who followed up with the admonition that if the parties to the action were not prepared to agree upon a receiver, he would appoint one himself.

Just at that time, Sheriff H. W. Goggin walked into court and the information was volunteered that he was acting as receiver in connection with further troubles which had been aired in the County Court.

His Lordship said that if the sheriff would take on the duties, he would appoint him, and before Sheriff Goggin had much chance to accept or decline the task, he was appointed by the court.

Where blanks occur in the table, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average level of low water.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Esquimalt drydock at any tide, add 18.9 feet to the height of high water as above given.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Songhees drydock add 30 feet to the height of high water as above given.

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

(From The Daily British Colonist of July 29, 1883)

Telegraphers' Strike—A message from San Francisco states: Interest in the telegraphers' strike is rapidly abating. Full communication is now established with Portland and all points South. The Portland office is now working with a very competent staff of operators, who have been recruited from outside men and women. Strikers have been confident their services would be required. They show no signs of weakness, and state they have a million dollars in the brotherhood treasury.

Provincial War—A dispatch to The Colonist from Winnipeg states that the disputed boundary question at Lake of the Woods is culminating in war between Ontario and Manitoba. If it has not already started. Chief of Police Murphy and a Manitoba constable were arrested by an Ontario special patrol and lodged in jail, but were subsequently released on bail. An attempt was made on Tuesday to liberate them.

Commercial Hotel Robbed—On Sunday morning the Commercial Hotel, situated on the corner of Johnson and Douglas Streets, and operated by David Ellis, was broken into and $150 taken. The discovery of the loss was not made until yesterday, when police were called in to investigate. A young man is being sought by officers for questioning.

At the Theatres

"COLLEGE HUMOR" IS AT DOMINION

Bing Crosby Does Some Fine Crooning in Musical Comedy of University Life

"College Humor," Paramount's boisterous words-and-music version of college life as it ought to be, opens today at the Dominion Theatre. "College Humor" boasts an all-star cast, a fast-moving story, a topnotch chorus, and music that already has proved successful on the radio and dance programmes.

In its cast are Ging Crosby, Richard Arlen, Mary Carlisle, Jack Oakie, George Burns and Gracie Allen, Lona Andre and Mary Kornman. The Ox-Road Co-Eds, a chorus of stunning youngsters, provide the dancing. It's music—"Learn to Croon," "Moonstruck," and "The Old Ox Road," its three hit tunes—were written by Sam Coslow and Arthur Johnston.

"College Humor" is the story of a campus at which reputations made on the gridiron are lost in the boudoir; where co-eds learn the facts of life more readily than mathematics or science.

Bing Crosby is cast as a young instructor. Arlen and Oakie are football heroes, each in his own fashion. George Burns and Gracie Allen are college-widow and college-widower, in their own particular styles. Mary Carlisle, Lona Andre and Mary Kornman are among the co-eds who make life difficult for the boys.

AMUSEMENTS

On the Screen

Capitol—Charlie Ruggles in "Melody Cruise."

Columbia—"Are You Listening," with William Haines.

Dominion—Bing Crosby in "College Humor."

Empire—"Secrets," with Mary Pickford.

Playhouse—Norma Shearer in "A Free Soul."

CAPITOL THEATRE A new type of musical film entertainment is presented in "Melody Cruise" at the Capitol Theatre, which is destined to be the forerunner of a new era of film musicals, believes Phil Harris, internationally celebrated radio favorite, who is featured with Charlie Ruggles and Greta Nissen. An adventurous aviatrix, who has been seeking satiation in automobile racing and altitude flying, encounters the new thrill of youthful romance and love in a middle-aged British statesman and arouses two dormant great desires, in RKO-Radio Pictures' "Christopher Strong," featuring Katherine Hepburn, Colin Clive, Billie Burke, Helen Chandler and Ralph Forbes.

COLUMBIA THEATRE There is more than the ordinary share of screen entertainment in "Are You Listening?" starring William Haines, which is now showing at the Columbia Theatre, for this picture, a filmization of the J. P. McEvoy radio story, is not only based on a tense dramatic situation brimming with action and suspense, but also finds room for exhilarating comedy and pleasant romance. Also showing is "The Washington Masquerade," with Lionel Barrymore.

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE Society and the underworld, the sordidness of Chinatown dens and the beauty of Yosemite Valley are contrasted in a spectacular series of dramatic happenings in "A Free Soul," Norma Shearer's newest starring picture, which is now showing at the Playhouse Theatre. Leslie Howard, last seen in "Five and Ten," and Clark Gable, who will be remembered for his outstanding work opposite Joan Crawford in "Dance, Fools, Dance" and with Wallace Beery in "The Secret Six," share leading man honors in the supporting cast with the heavy character role going to Lionel Barrymore, who again appears before the camera after an interval of directing.

EMPIRE THEATRE The comedian who yearned to play Hamlet has his counterpart in Ned Sparks, Hollywood's famous dead-pan laugh-provoker, who, all his life, has cherished an ambition to give a dramatic performance. This ambition is realized in Mary Pickford's "Secrets," now on the screen at the Empire Theatre. Sparks shares supporting honors with Leslie Howard in the romantic story directed by Frank Borzage, whose previous productions such as "Seventh Heaven," "Bad Girl" and "Farewell to Arms," have been acclaimed throughout the world.

CALLING IT A "TURNPIKE" OR "THE PIKE"

There is the famous "Jericho Turnpike" on Long Island—a beautiful cross-country road, and throughout the country the motorist is constantly riding on this or that "turnpike" as his map is likely to call a specially good "through road"—which is not really a "turnpike" at all!

Literally, "turnpike" means "a frame consisting of two bars crossing each other at right angles and turning on a post or pin, to hinder the passage of beasts but admitting a person to pass between the arms; a turnstile."

Originally, however a turnpike was a barrier set across a road for defence against attack, a series of pikes! By the seventeenth century the barrier became a gate placed across a road for purposes of collecting tolls. Though lacking the sharpened pikes, it was still called a "turnpike road." The U.S. national highway running West from Ohio, was such a turnpike road. By the middle of the eighteenth century it was called the "turnpike." Later it became the "pike," as the term is used today to indicate the "main highway."

Little Bedtime Stories

And They All Jumped

—By THORNTON W. BURGESS—

And so it happened that when some distance away he discovered Peter Rabbit.

There are times when one of the hardest things to do that I know of is to sit still for a very long time and not go to sleep. It is especially hard on a warm, sunny day. Anyway, Peter Rabbit was finding it so. He winked and he blinked and he yawned as he sat there on the bank of the Smiling Pool, wondering how long it would be before Longlegs the Heron would get tired of waiting and watching for Piper the Hyla. By and by Peter's head began to nod. Several times he dozed off and awoke with a start. Then he glanced hastily at Longlegs and pretended that he hadn't been asleep at all.

But after a while, in spite of all he could do, Peter did go to sleep. He just couldn't keep his eyes open any longer. He tried to for the sake of Piper the Hyla, who, as you remember, was hiding under Peter's tail. But he couldn't for Piper's sake any more than he could for his own. Longlegs the Heron looked over at Peter and his eyes twinkled. Longlegs wasn't sleepy. No, indeed. Longlegs wasn't sleepy, although to have seen him you would have thought him asleep. That is the way he fishes. Many a foolish little fish and equally foolish little Frog has discovered the way down the long throat of Longlegs just because they thought he was asleep.

By and by a certain gentleman in red came down on the Green Meadows to see what there might be there of interest. After a while he took it into his head to run over to the Smiling Pool. He has a liking for a fish now and then, or for a Frog, and when he cannot find a Meadow Mouse or surprise a bird or dine on one of Peter Rabbit's relatives he is quite apt to visit the Smiling Pool or the Laughing Brook.

Now, this gentleman in red has very sharp eyes and a very keen nose. Also his wits are of the very brightest. As he approached the Smiling Pool, he would stand up on his hind legs that he might see better. He would test every Merry Little Breeze that came his way. And so it happened that when some distance away he discovered Peter Rabbit. Now, of course, the gentleman in red had no way of knowing that Peter was asleep. So, having been fooled many times by Peter, he took no chances this time. Crouching down very close to the ground, he crept and crept, nearer and nearer, to Peter Rabbit. He was so intent on Peter that he saw nothing else.

Now, it happened that that morning Farmer Brown's Boy took it into his head to visit the Smiling Pool again. He hoped he might see Piper the Hyla. What he did see as he drew near the Smiling Pool was the gentleman in red. And he knew by the way he was acting that he had great hopes of catching some one. Farmer Brown's Boy in his turn stole forward very softly and very carefully, crouching down as much as possible.

Just as the gentleman in red got within two jumps of Peter Rabbit, Farmer Brown's Boy was near enough to see all that was going on. He saw that in just about one minute more Peter Rabbit would be likely to be furnishing the gentleman in red with a dinner. "Hi there, you red rascal!" yelled Farmer Brown's Boy.

Now, at the sound of that yell, things happened. Reddy Fox—for, of course, that was who the gentleman in red was—jumped and raced away as fast as his legs would take him. Peter Rabbit awoke, and he, too, jumped and raced for the hole under the Big Hickory Tree. Longlegs the Heron jumped into the air and flew away. Last of all, Piper the Hyla jumped and dived headfirst into the Smiling Pool. And so it was that Farmer Brown's Boy saved the life of Peter Rabbit and Peter Rabbit saved the life of Piper the Hyla.

DEATH CLAIMS ALBERT PINEO

Well-Known Educationist of Province Passes Away at Port Alberni

Former High School students and residents of Victoria will learn with regret the passing of Albert J. Pineo, a well known educationist of this city and district, who died yesterday at Port Alberni at the age of seventy-seven years.

Mr. Pineo was a member of the Victoria High School staff from 1893 until 1911, when he gave up his teaching profession and entered the Unitarian ministry, serving for a time at Calgary.

He was a man who took a deep interest in religious affairs and was highly respected throughout the province.

Mr. Pineo was born in New Brunswick and graduated from the old University of Acadia. When he came to Victoria in 1893, he was under the principalship of Dr. E. B. Paul and was, in later years, associated with the late Howard Russell and Dr. S. J. Willis.

He is survived by two sons, Dr. Clifford Pineo and L. W. Pineo, of Port Alberni, and two daughters, Mrs. N. Thompson, of Los Angeles, and Mrs. E. Le Huray, of Vancouver.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

BRIDGE BILL IS EXPLAINED

assented to on April 7, and the proclamation bringing it into effect was dated May 16. For over a year, schemes advanced by both the Fraser Bridge Company and the Ladner Bridge Company were argued before the executive; and the Fraser Bridge Company wanted a charter on a basis that would have diverted all railway traffic over the present Fraser River bridge to the new bridge, at a loss of $75,000 a year in provincial revenue. The reply continues:

ASSURED PRIOR CLAIM

"As to the obligations which it is claimed are put upon the Government, may we draw attention to Clause 5 of the agreement, which provides that the Government shall have a first charge on the bridge and all the (Ladner) company's assets, even in priority to the bondholders, for all moneys advanced by the Government on account of tolls shortage, and that all moneys from time to time advanced by the Government, will be repayable with interest at 6 per cent; and the company is debarred from creating any charge in priority to that of the Government. This provision is in marked contrast to the suggestion advanced by the Fraser River Bridge Company, which insured a loss of $75,000 a year revenue to the Government."

There was little to choose between the fiscal structure of either company, one having three qualifying shares and the other four, in the process of formation, the reply intimates. The argument on tolls, it is contended, falls to the ground, and the following comparison on tolls is expressed:

TOLLS COMPARED

"The tolls for pedestrians under the Fraser Bridge Company Act is 7 1-2 cents; under the Ladner Bridge Company Act, it is 5 cents. All buses under the Fraser Act are charged $1.50; under the Ladner, small buses are charged $1, and big buses $1.50. Under the Fraser Act a charge of 25 cents is detailed for each horse, without or with rider, and other animals in proportion; under the Ladner, they are taken free when loaded in trucks, and a charge of 5 cents apiece is made when herded. In the case of the Ladner, a charge of 50 cents is made for motor cars; and, under the Fraser, 25 cents, and charges for trucks are also higher."

In no instance, continues the reply, are the Ladner tolls "five times as high" as the Fraser, as alleged in the petition for a royal commission.

FEDERAL APPROVAL

Dealing with the "menace to shipping" argument, the Government's reply states the Ladner site had the approval of the Federal Government as early as 1931, and that New Westminster public officials went on record favoring a bridge projected at Annacis Island, closer to its own waters. In the present year the Federal Government has re-endorsed the Ladner (Dease Island) site as not interfering with shipping, though whether with or without the approval of New Westminster Federal members is unknown here.

The Province will be under no obligation to take over the bridge by arbitration and purchase, this being an optional right at its own discretion. After sixty years, the exclusive right of operating a bridge at or near Dease Island runs out, it is further pointed out in the Government reply.

"It is quite evident that the petitioners have not studied the agreement," the Government's statement concludes.

Summer School Will Start on Monday at St. Andrew's Church

Rev. Walter Ellis, M.A., B.D., principal of Vancouver Bible School, will be the lecturer at the St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church all next week, when the Young People's Association is sponsoring a Summer school for the Presbytery of Victoria.

Courses in teacher training as well as lectures on different aspects of the Bible will be offered by Mr. Ellis. It is expected a large number of young people will attend the school, which will be open to the public.

FUNERAL SERVICE TODAY

Funeral service for Lieutenant Franklin Stanley Willsie, who passed away at St. Joseph's Hospital on July 26, will be held this afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock, from Carter's Funeral Home, 1612 Quadra Street. Rev. C. O. Mackenzie will officiate, and the remains will be forwarded on the night boat to Vancouver, en route to Thetford, Ontario, for interment in the family plot.

VOCALIST BACK IN CITY AGAIN

Mme. Lugrin-Fahey Cordially Welcomed in Recital at Metropolitan Church

Possessor of a lustrous dramatic soprano of great power and range, Mme. Lugrin-Fahey, a decade or more ago was a very great favorite with Victoria audiences, to whom she sang on scores of occasions on behalf of patriotic or other benevolent causes. The flattering reception that she was accorded last evening at the Metropolitan Church, on the occasion of her reappearance on the concert platform here after an absence of several years, gave unmistakable evidence that she had not been forgotten, while the magnificence of her tone was found to be unimpaired.

OLD FAVORITES

With the exception of the four songs from her own operetta, "The Bride Ship," all of which were notably popular, most of the numbers on her programme were old favorites culled from past programmes, including the two oratorio arias with which she opened her recital: "Angels Ever Bright and Fair" (Handel), and "With Verdure Clad," from Haydn's "Creation"; the dramatically rendered, "Ocean, Thou Mighty Monster" (Weber); Rossini's "Una voce poco far," lightly and unaffectedly sung, and one of the best numbers of the evening; the two French numbers, Hahn's melodious "Si mes vers avaient des ailes," and Fourdrain's "Papillion," a very charming composition; Woodman's "O Love, My Heart"; the rhythmically-sung lullaby, "A Mother's Love," composed by Mrs. Fahey herself for her "Spirit of the Nile"; the three Scottish songs, "Caller Herrin'," which was perhaps unnecessarily over-characterized; "Comin' Through the Rye," and "Charming Chloe"; and the old Molloy favorite, "Kerry Dance." Characteristic emotional or histrionic qualities entered into the singing of these.

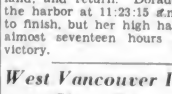

"THE BRIDE SHIP"

"The Bride Ship," Mme Lugrin-Fahey's operetta which provided the four songs of her last group, is based on the actual historic incident of the sending to British Columbia from England of a vessel freighted with brides destined for the bachelor pioneers of the young island colony. The songs selected were in three instances rather homesick in sentiment; the fourth, which in the operetta is assigned to a Scottish lassie, being in more lighthearted vein. They are tuneful and romantic melodies, and the first particularly suited the singer. All were enthusiastically received, their titles being "Spirit of Night," "I Long for the Homeland," "Dreamin' I'm a Bride," and "I Will Love You Always." this last containing the theme melody of the operetta.

The singer was very gracious in granting encores, including Liza Lehmann's "Cuckoo," "Homing," "Comin' Through the Rye," Perry's "The Answer," and Laforge's "Song of the Open."

West Vancouver Is Given Ferry Rights

Consolidating the position of West Vancouver District in ferry operation, the British Columbia Government yesterday granted the municipality exclusive right to operate ferries between West Vancouver and Vancouver City for a term of twenty years to come. The subsisting licence was canceled.

West Vancouver, with an investment of $200,000 in ferry operations, is planning further improvements to a service from which it draws steady returns.

CHARGE IS WITHDRAWN IN ABDUCTION CASE

The charge against James Owen Ryan of having abducted Alma Watson, adopted daughter of George Andrew Watson, of Provost Island, was withdrawn in the County Court yesterday. E. V. Finland, who appeared for the Crown, when the case was called for trial before Judge F. S. Lampman, said that the Attorney-General's department, in view of the absence of any proof as to the exact age of the girl concerned, was prepared to drop the prosecution.

There was considerable doubt respecting her age which was material to the case.

The charge was thereupon withdrawn. Stuart Henderson appeared for the accused in the case.

"You must travel 450 million miles to be killed in an American railroad accident." It seems a poor reward for so steadfast a patron.

RAIN LESSENS FIRE HAZARDS

Falling Barometer Brings Rain and Cooler Weather on Coast

With a fall in the barometer, showers fell over the Victoria area last night, moderating the temperatures of the last few days. Fair and moderately warm weather has been general throughout the province, F. Napier Denison, director of the Dominion Meteorological Observatory, stated.

Yesterday's rain was beneficial to this area and other parts of the province, where humidity has been low and the fire hazard high.

The forecast for the next twenty-four hours is light to moderate winds, generally fair, with local showers.

Defending Champion Wins Way to Last Pair in Manitoba Golf Tourney

WINNIPEG, July 28 (CP).—Conqueror of George Boeckh, Toronto contender, in the quarter-finals of the Manitoba amateur golf tournament today, C. L. Reith advanced to the last bracket today by playing out a narrow victory over Dan Kennedy, St. Charles, on the last green of the quarter-finals, and then taking the measure of Ernie Palmer, Canoe Club, six and five, in the fours.

Workers' Tag Day

The Workers' Sports Association is today appealing for the support of the citizens of Victoria through the medium of a tag day. All receipts of the day will be used entirely for the purpose of providing sports for the unemployed youths of Victoria. Due to the steady growth of this association, an appeal has been made necessary, as the usual channels for raising funds have been found insufficient to take care of the increased activities.

Announcements

Encouraged by the unqualified success she obtains in her treatment for the removal of superfluous hair, moles, etc., Miss Hanman is prepared to guarantee an absolute cure in every case she undertakes—the worst possible, of thirty years' growth!—equally with the slight case—providing only that the necessary number of treatments are taken. Surely this is reasonable! Call for booklet. 503 Sayward Building. Phone G 7642.

GOLD MINES TO USE AIRPLANES

"Mad Major" of War Fame Proposes Air Transport for Labrador

LONDON, July 28 (CP).—An ambitious scheme to provide air transportation to gold mining camps in the interior of Labrador is announced by Major Christopher Draper, known as the "mad major" because of his daring air exploits during the war.

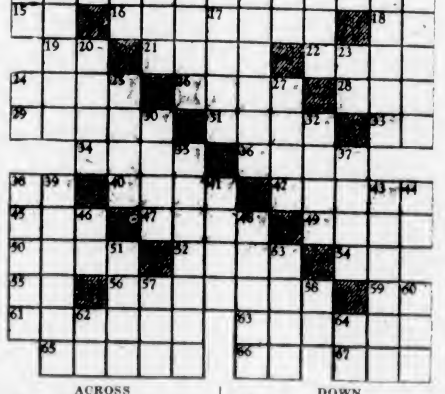

Major Draper said a 400-ton yacht had been acquired to leave England in six weeks with a fleet of airplanes, one of which will be a bullion carrier. The yacht will sail to a base on the Labrador Coast, where a camp will be established. From this point the airplanes will operate on a regular schedule carrying supplies and passengers.

ANSWER TO YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE

City and District

Absent From City—Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe will be out of town on departmental affairs for the balance of the week, but is expected back on Monday.

Promotions Made—Three junior employees of the King's Printery received a step up in their work yesterday by promotion to posts with more responsibilities. They were H. A. McCaw, R. C. Askey and A. A. E. Rogerson.

Grant for Cumberland — The British Columbia Government yesterday voted a grant for $1,400 to the city of Cumberland, on account of losses incurred in the recent disastrous fire which swept the business section of the area. Authority for the grant was made by special warrant.

Loses Money—Charles Ockenden, 26 Dallas Road, reported to police that he had lost $150 in bills while walking along the waterfront yesterday. The bills were wrapped in wax paper. When Mr. Ockenden discovered his loss, he retraced his footsteps and found the wax paper, but the money was gone.

Raid Is Made—Provincial police raided the Mill Bay Inn on Wednesday night, it was announced yesterday by Inspector Robert Owens. A charge of keeping liquor for sale contrary to the Liquor Act is expected as a result of the raid. The case is scheduled to be heard in the Provincial Police Court here next Wednesday.

Wins Regina Awards — W. D. Michell, of Saanich, who is well known in farming circles, has achieved notable success with his entries in the Regina World Grain Show. Mr. Michell was awarded second prize for his Maple peas and other varieties, fifth prize for his Sterling peas, of large white variety, and fifth prize with his exhibit of Sun wheat, Winter variety.

Civic Picnic Today—The annual outing of the Civic Employees' Protective Association will be held today, weather permitting, at Goldstream Flats. Mayor David Leeming and other civic officials will attend the gathering and a programme of sports for the children will be run off during the afternoon, with softball and other games for the older groups.

May Be Independent — Captain James Fitzsimmons, member for Kaslo-Slocan in the Provincial Legislature, was in the city yesterday to confer with provincial officials as to road and trail repairs in the mining areas of his constituency. Captain Fitzsimmons said he expected to run as a Conservative-Independent in Kaslo-Slocan, though this had not yet been finally decided.

To Share Profits — Final cheques for their share of British Columbia Government liquor profits may go out to seventy-eight municipalities of the province at the end of next week, it was intimated yesterday by Hon. J. W. Jones. The Treasury is now at work on arrangements for the distribution, based on the attendance rosters at public schools in each area. The municipalities receive 23 per cent of the profits, after fixed statutory deductions.

Application General—His strictures regarding observance of the Hours of Work Act were intended for general application by all branches of British Columbia industry, and did not refer alone to the lumber trade, Hon. W. M. Dennies commented, yesterday, as reactions to his initial pronouncement began to come in. Mr. Dennies said the immediate response to his appeal had been favorable, and would be followed up by conference with industrial leaders as occasion offered.

Chamber Application—An application on behalf of the executors of the J. W. Benning estate was made in Supreme Court Chambers here yesterday by Carew Martin. The latter said that the estate would run over $1,000,000. Accounts amounting to $15,000 were asked to be approved for payment by Mr. Justice Murphy. His Lordship said that he would go into the matter and check up on it. He, however, would like to hear from H. G. Lawson, who appeared as the personal solicitor for the principal heir, the infant daughter, as to whether he felt the amounts were proper.

Flood Threats Over — With the level of the Fraser River at Mission guage receding under the fifteen-foot mark, provincial engineers yesterday sounded the all-clear signal marking the end of a long-continued period of anxiety as to high water in the Fraser, Thompson and Columbia Rivers. At one time the Fraser was within inches of its extreme high-water mark. While a certain amount of flood damage was done in the upper parts of some drainage basins, the loss was slight, and a threatening condition of late snow and rapid escapement eased itself naturally.

Wait for Opening—British Columbia does not contemplate going to the money market in the immediate future but will wait a favorable opening, after close study of domestic conditions in the financial marts of Canada, Hon. J. W. Jones intimated yesterday. The success of two recent loans by other provinces if being watched, meanwhile, with interest. Mr. Jones did not commit himself as to what British Columbia plans would be, but said the whole situation was under review. Taxation officials are at present engaged in studying what effect, if any, the recent London succession duty judgment will have on British Columbia revenues.

Pay for Commission—The British Columbia Government yesterday established a scale of expense it will recognize in connection with the Royal Commission on Municipal Affairs. With the exception of the chairman, commisioners will receive $20 a day for each actual day of hearings, with an allowance of $10 daily and transportation costs to cover necessary expenses on tour. Provision was also made for a paid secretary and stenographer, and incidental costs of the operation of the commission. The chairman is a Federal official, loaned voluntarily by the Dominion for the purpose. The Government recently passed a special warrant for $15,000 to cover possible costs in connection with the inquiry.

Snapshot Contest—Monday will be the last day for the July photographs in The Colonist Snapshot Contest, and judging of the entries will be done early next week. There have been a number of especially fine photographs received this month, and holiday-makers all over the Island have been sending in the results of their rambles with their cameras. The scenic attractions of Vancouver Island are so many that photographers eligible for the contest can find beauty spots both near Victoria and in outlying districts. The three prize winners for July will be published on Sunday, August 6, and in addition to the August prizes, the three final awards will be made at the end of next month.

CHICAGO, July 28 (AP).—When Thomas Fredinordo, twenty-seven, alias Tony Rocco, alleged gunman and hoodlum, told police who arrested him, the other day, he would be slain if ever caught on the North Side, he was right.

Four men cornered Fredinordo as he sat drinking in the saloon of Daniel Gallagher, on the Northwest Side of the city, and, as he ran to escape out the back door, they sent a volley of bullets into his body.

He said that the Canadian Church, at least in most of the dioceses, was thirty years behind England in the matter of Anglo-Catholic attitude and practice. There were, however, dioceses where "the priests are giving solid teaching on the doctrines of the Real Presence and the Eucharistic Sacrifice."

Churches and Their World-Wide Work

International Group Plan Great Campaign

World House Party at Oxford of Oxford Group Leaders Shows Progress Made Since First Visit of Dr. Buchman in 1921

Indicative of the rapid growth of the Oxford Group Movement was the international house party that was held at the beginning of the month at Oxford. It is only five years since the first team went from England to South Africa and thereby gave the new method of evangelism its present name. It is only twelve years since Dr. Frank Buchman started his meetings at Oxford, where for some time "Buchmanism" was regarded wtih suspicion or open hostility.

The present gathering crowded six colleges and a hotel with fervent adherents, many of whom had returned from strikingly effectual tours in Canada and the United States, where in the leading cities are now many ardent groups of revolutionized people meeting for fellowship and mutual discipline in Christian life and service. There are twenty such groups in Victoria. In Vancouver, according to Rev. S. H. Smith, who spent a few days in this city over the week-end, there are eight or nine groups who meet for luncheon, one of them composed of insurance men, meeting daily.

BREADTH AND PRESTIGE

The breadth and growing prestige of the movement was shown in the personnel of some of its more distinguished delegates at Oxford. Among these were Prof. Emil Brunner, of Zurich, a famed Lutheran theologian and exponent of the Barthian theology; Dr. Adolph Keller, of Geneva, the rallying centre of the evangelical forces on the continent of Europe; Lord Noel Buxton, great-grandson of Sir Thomas F. Buxton, the colleague of William Wilberforce one hundred years ago; Lord Rochester, the British Paymaser-General; Count John Bentick, of Holland, and Baron Franckenstein, the Austrian Minister to Britain; Vice-Admiral Sidney Drury-Lowe, and Carl Brooman, formerly Assistant-Secretary of Agriculture in the United States. An interesting visitor was Father Winslow, the founder of the first Indian Christian Order at Poona, India, whose interest was first captured by the report of miracles in a small country parish in England.

DRAWING POWER SHOWN

The drawing power of vital Christianity was shown in the coming of a former waster, who traveled 3,000 miles by cattle boat, peeling, he calculated half a ton of potatoes for his keep; in another who worked his way 3,000 miles by train and 3,000 miles by boat just to be at a religious conference." But this is more than a religious conference, as The Church of England Newspaper states: "It is "the training of a disciplined army marching in step upon the strategic centres of the world's life." Here in Oxford the two next moves in a big campaign were planned. Here took place a fresh study of principles and a revision of technique.

There were nearly fifty delegates from Canada, among whom were a member of the staff of Montreal Cathedral, the vice-president of a newspaper who paid $12,000 of conscience money to the Customs Depart after meeting the Group, and a Calgary minister who visited here last Summer, who said that when he stopped thinking of "My work, my sermon," and began to think, not in terms of "filling churches, but of filling men," he came into peace and power.

Emancipation of British Slaves Is Being Celebrated

DYING a few days before the Act of Emancipation was actually passed, William Wilberforce, one of England's greatest humanitarians, was assured before he passed on that the labors of himself and such colleagues as F. Powell Buxton and Granville Sharp were to be crowned with success. No more could a human life be bought and sold on British soil, no more could a man drive his fellow man or sister woman with a driver's whip under the British flag. The centenary of the death of Wilberforce on July 29, 1833, and of the passage of the bill that set free the slaves of the West Indies is now being celebrated in Britain. Some story of this noble movement will be told in tomorrow's issue.

Dr. Davies will contend that the sweeping advances in every line of human activity, as contrasted with the deadly slowness of the government set-up and the economic mechanism now in vogue are at such variance in pace that ultimately the latter must succumb to the former. Dr. Davies will detail many striking illustrations which he has brought back from the Century of Progress, to stress his point.

Saltspring Garden Fete Is Successful

SALTSPRING ISLAND, July 28. —The annual garden party and sale of work, organized by the members of the Saltspring Women's Auxiliary and St. Mary's Guild, of Fulford Harbor, took place at the Vicarage on July 26, and proved most successful, the sum of $193 being taken. At 2:30 p.m., following an introduction by the vicar, Rev. C. H. Popham, Mrs. W. H. Belson, of Deep Cove, opened the sale.

The following is a list of stalls and stall holders: Fancy and plain needlework, Mrs. F. Stacey, Mrs. Drummond and Miss Beddis; country fair and home-cooking, Mrs. D. Simson, Mrs. H. Johnson, Mrs. Frank Crofton and Mrs. Davis; candies, Mrs. N. W. Wilson and Mrs. T. Jackson; ice cream, sundaes and pop, Mrs. T. F. Speed and Mrs. A. B. Elliot; books, Miss F. Park; pick and take, Mrs. W. T. A. Burkitt; wishing well, Mrs. William Palmer; clock golf and badminton, Dr. Bryant and Mrs. Charlesworth.

There were two weight guessing competitions. An iced fruit cake, four pounds thirteen ounces, made by Mrs. F. Stacey, was won by Mrs. William Palmer. A quarter of lamb, given by Mr. D. Wintrup, weighing eight pounds two ounces, was tied for by Mrs. Moorhouse, Mrs. Simson and Mrs. Johnson, and was eventually won by Mrs. Moorhouse. A small pig, given by Mr. S. P. Beech, was won by Mr. H. W. Bullock. A sweater, beautifully worked by Mrs. A. B. Cartwright, was won by Mrs. J. N. Rogers. Bedspread, worked by members of the W.A., was won by Mrs. D. Ross, of Esquimalt. Tea set, given by Mr. Bullock, was won by Mrs. S. Aitkens. Large, brass jardiniere, given by Mrs. F. B. Abbott, was won by Miss Phyllis Beech. Glass bowl of candy was won by Mrs. C. H. Popham. A children's treasure hunt, arranged by Mr. Raymond Best, was won by Tod Inglis.

The tea tables, decorated with sweet peas, were laid in a shady part of the garden, under the trees. Mrs. S. P. Beech was in charge, others assisting, Mrs. Tassell, Mrs. Warg, Misses O. and M. Cunningham, Phyllis Beech and others. Preceding the sale Mrs. Moorhouse, president of the W.A., entertained Mrs. Belson and a few others to lunch at Harbor House, Ganges.

Little Orchestra To Play Erlkonig

Miss Gladys Shrapnel's little orchestra of advanced players will give a concert on Tuesday, August 1, at 8:15 p.m., in the New Thought Hall, Fort Street.

Among the numbers to be played will be Miss Shrapnel's transcription of "Erikonig." The Erl King, as all familiar with the song know, was a ghostly goblin who preyed on children. A horseman, so runs the German legend, riding homeward with his little son in his arms in a night of wild storm, is pursued by the Erl King. Schubert's musical version of the story is unique, both in harmony and rhythm, the measured beat of swift galloping resolving, finally, into a broken rhythm of stumbling, exhausted horses. The composer, founding his music on Goethe's poetic version of the legend, has marked with harmony of unusual sweetness the dialogue wherein the horseman hushes the fear of his little son. Concluding harmonies leave no doubt as to who won the race. Included in the programme is Saint-Saens' concerto for piano and strings, Vieuxtemps' Fantasia Appassionate, and a Scottish symphony.

The solo violinist of the evening will be M. Toume, and G. B. Kitto will act as chairman.

A collection will be taken in aid of the Women's Workroom.

Villagers of Taplow Cheer Bridal Couple

TAPLOW, Buckinghamshire, Eng., July 28 (AP). — Announced intention for a "quiet wedding in a village church" made the nuptials of the Honorable Phyllis Nancy Astor and Lord Willoughby de Eresby all the more impressive on Thursday.

Villagers of Taplow who stood upon a farm cart or climbed the church railing—or sat upon an adjacent wall to cheer the bride, numbered more than 1,000. The guests included princesses, ambassadors, Cabinet ministers and titled and untitled elite of Mayfair.

The ceremony was performed in the Church of St. Nicholas, by the Bishop of Exeter, assisted by the vicar of Taplow.

The bride is the only daughter of Viscount and Viscountess Astor. The bridegroom is the son and heir of the Earl and Countess of Lancaster.

CHOIR ENJOYS PICNIC

The Metropolitan United Church Choir held its annual picnic on Wednesday afternoon at Cordova Bay, tea being served at McMoran's Pavilion. There were about 100 members of the choir and their friends present, and a most delightful afternoon was spent, swimming, boating, baseball and a treasure hunt providing plenty of amusement for the holiday-makers.

COMMUNITY CLUB PARTY

Members of the Esquimalt Community Club were the guests of Lady Emily Walker, president of the club, at a charmingly arranged At Home on Wednesday afternoon. The members were welcomed by the hostess and Rev. R. E. Walker. Tea was served in the drawing-room and on the spacious veranda, the tables being centred with vases of sweet peas and gypsophila. The garden surrounding "Trafalgar House" was much admired, and the members greatly appreciated the hospitality of their hosts. The club will resume its meetings in September.

Lady Astor's Daughter

THIS is a striking portrait of the Honorable Phyllis Astor, only daughter of Viscount and Viscountess Astor, whose marriage to Lord Willoughby de Eresby, elder son of the Earl and Countess of Lancaster, took place on Thursday.

Pupils Give Testimonial To Teacher

A farewell luncheon to Viggo Kihl, the distinguished Danish pianist who has been conducting master classes in the city for the past fortnight, was held yesterday at the Dominion Hotel. Covers were laid for forty at tables effectively decorated with bowls of nasturtiums and gladioli.

In connection with the event, a testimonial, printed on parchment by one of the Sisters of St. Ann who has been attending the class, was presented to Mr. Kihl, this expressing in graceful wording the students' deep appreciation not only of the scholarly way in which the subjects under review had been presented, but also of the kindly and charming personality of their instructor, who was earnestly requested to return here next Summer to conduct a similar class. Three rousing cheers and a tiger were given for Mr. Kihl.

The testimonial was read and presented on behalf of the students by Mrs. W. A. Jameson, whose disinterested efforts in organizing the class they had already acknowledged, through Reginald Cox, by the presentation of two pretty pieces of china and a corsage bouquet. Appended to the testimonial were the autographs of the thirty-seven students attending the class, and at the close of his afternoon lecture and demonstration yesterday, Mr. Kihl read these aloud and bade farewell to each member of the class in turn.

Among the students who have played during the demonstration classes of the course were Mrs. E. C. McNeil, Mrs. John Gough, Mrs. Fairbairn, Miss Gwen Harper, Miss Helen Winn, Miss Margaret Pringle, Miss Beatrice Griffin, Miss Grace White, Miss Elaine Willard and E. Holloway.

Very Successful Fete Is Held by Women of Moose

The beautiful garden surrounding the home of Dr. C. Espley, 130 Menzies Street, combined with the ideal weather, was the scene of a successful garden party held by the Women of the Moose, Chapter No. 25, on Wednesday afternoon. The fete was officially opened at 2:30 o'clock by Mr. Reginald Hayward, M.P.P., and Mrs. Hayward.

Mr. Hayward made a splendid speech illustrating in brief the two great enterprizes undertaken by the Moose; its founding of the child city, "Mooseheart," the aim to be the caring for its dependent children, providing them with a home and trade from which they are graduated to take up life for themselves. The other enterprize is the beautiful community of "Moosehaven" in Florida where the aged are taken care of. Mrs. Hayward was presented with a corsage bouquet by the senior regent, Mrs. M. Pearce, and the convener, Mrs. A. Hatcher, presented Mr. Hayward with a Victoria rose.

VARIOUS BOOTHS

The home-cooking and candy stall, at which flowers were also sold, was in charge of Mrs. B. Brown and Mrs. R. Panting; the miscellaneous stall, where every household article could be bought, was in charge of Mrs. M. Morrie and Mrs. E. Burke. The ever-popular game of housie-housie drew the crowd and especially as there was a lovely range of plants to choose from. This was in charge of Mrs. O. Randy and Miss B. Allan. The tea, which was attractively set out, was convened by Mrs. C. Spouse. Those assisting were Miss B. Tibballs, Miss T. Ostler, and Mrs. E. Elesmore.

PRIZES WON

The Fort Garry tea was served by Mrs. O'Neil. Mrs. Margaret Robertson was at the receipt of custom. A fish pond and grab barrel, which created fun, was in charge of Mr. G. Allan, Mr. B. Knott, and Mr. T. Spouse, of Maple Leaf Legion, No. 53. At 6 p.m., the contests were announced, the winners being:

Five-pound decorated fruit cake, given by Mrs. B. Brown, won by Miss Elaine Smith; box of chocolates, given by Mrs. C. Spouse, won by Mr. T. Spouse; box of tomatoes, given by Mrs. O. Randy, won by Mrs. J. Ostler; box of biscuits, given by Mrs. M. Pearce, won by Mrs. R. Panting. This closed the successful afternoon, and thanks are forwarded to all who kindly helped to make it so successful.

Trail Riders Set Out on Great Trek

LAKE LOUISE, July 29.—The tenth annual ride of the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies, set out from here, yesterday morning, seventy strong, for the four-day trek over mountainous territory virtually untraversed for over thirty years.

The cavalcade, including seventy saddle horses and seventy pack horses, pitched its first camp last night at the north end of Bow Lake, under the shadow of Mount Thompson, 10,119 feet, after having followed the Bow River and passing the rudder masses of Crowfoot Glacier, twenty of the more ambitious riders, led by President James Brewster, of Banff, continued on a side trip to Feyto Lake and its glacier, returning to camp for the night after adding those extra ten miles to the day's regular twenty miles. Today's course is another twenty-five miles to Lake Helen and thence via Dolomite Pass and Dolomite Creek to the second night's camping near Isabella Lake. Camp number three will be on the Pipestone River, and the fourth evening will see the return of the party to Lake Louise for the pow wow and election of officers.

LIFE MEMBERS OF ORDER

The Trail Riders have members in almost every civilized country of the world, including Siam, whose royal couple are life members of the order. King Prajadhipok having earned the button for traversing over a hundred miles of Canadian Rockies trails, and the Queen the fifty-mile button. Among those making the ride this time are Fletcher P. Brady, of Providence, R.I.; Colonel Phil Moore, of Banff, and Carl Rungius, famous New York artist; none of whom have ever missed this annual ride.

Others in the cavalcade include George and Henry Vaux, of Bryn Mawr, Penn.; Miss Georgia Englehard, New York Alpinist, who holds the record of having climbed thirty-eight peaks in one season; Miss Elizabeth Booz, of Washington, D.C.; R. H. Palenk, noted Chicago artist; John Murray Gibbon, Montreal novelist and musicologist; Misses Anne and Helen Harbinson, of Philadelphia; Paul Standard, New York journalist, with Mrs. Standard; Harry Wright, New York; Mrs. P. A. Moore and Miss Edmee Moore, of Banff, and Miss G. L. Broadfoot.

Tennis Club Dance

An enthusiastic crowd of tennis players and their friends attended the dance at the Royal Victoria Yacht Club, last evening, an affair which was the highlight of the social activities which have been held in connection with the British Columbia tennis tournament at the Willows this week. After days of strenuous play, the dance came as a happy and carefree gathering, and the committee in charge deserves great credit for making the dance such a success. There was an excellent orchestra which played many old favorite tunes as request numbers, and supper was served in the dining-room upstairs. The dance-room and the wide verandas of the club afforded ample space for dancing and the visitors, who have been given a warm welcome to Victoria, were enthusiastic in their appreciation of the evening's entertainment.

What Today Means

"LEO"

If July 29 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:45 a.m. to 10 a.m., from 1 p.m. to 4:35 p.m. and from 6:50 p.m. to 7:45 p.m. The danger periods are from 7:30 a.m. to 8:10 a.m., from 12:10 p.m. to 1:10 p.m. and from 10:30 p.m. to 11:30 p.m.

Influences operating on this date will tend to make it difficult to get at the truth of any troubling situation. In attempting the consummation of a business deal you may confront a barrier that will tie up the situation for a period of short duration. Children will be inclined to evade the truth, and between lovers you will find a generally unsettled feeling.

The child born on this July 29 will quite possibly march along steadily through life with a few if any interruptions until he has attained considerable age. Things will not come to him with great ease, but by steadiness and persistence he will get there. He must be careful not to let discouragement creep into his life because of any petty reverses he may suffer.

If July 29 is the date of your birth, you are more than likely a person who cannot long remain in repose. Active and possessed of great energy, you will attain great heights if you are properly directed. Much of your success will come as a natural result of the training and good care you had when you were young. You are a person of considerable force and you like to have power and wield it. You know how to deal wisely with people so as to bring out the best that is in them and when it comes to caring for the best interests of any group, you are far-seeing enough to be able to lead them rightly towards that goal. People are inclined to fear you on first meeting; you give the appearance of being very stern and not too human. On longer acquaintance they come to appreciate and love your honesty, sincerity and loyalty.

Born on July 29, there is a great deal of good in your make-up which must express itself. It is quite likely that you will turn to one of the arts as a means of self-expression. Music proves stimulating to you and if you do not actively follow it and work at it yourself, you will at least derive much pleasure and benefit from the creative work of others. Money means a good deal to you. You value it sanely and rightly and use it to good purpose.

Doreen, aged six, had been told to watch a silk dress airing in front of the fire while her mother went upstairs.

Presently she called out, "Mummy, shall I turn it? It's lovely and brown on one side."

The final session of the village musical festival was drawing to a close when the secretary, perturbed at the non-arrival of a number of the trophies, approached the chairman and informed him of the predicament.

Summoning his chauffeur, the chairman gave him instructions to drive home and ask the butler to give him half a dozen cups "off the sideboard."

The cups were duly delivered and the presentation of prizes proceeded according to programme.

The conductor of the winning band was handed a beautiful trophy; another was presented to the winning tenor. When the leading soprano received her cup, however, she glanced at the inscription and fell in a faint. The inscription read: "For the best pig in the show."

George—I always do my hardest work before breakfast.

Fred—What's that?

George—Getting up.

SANTA ROSA DUE TODAY FROM EAST

Party of New York Teachers Aboard En Route to Alaska Points

LARGE PASSENGER LIST IS CARRIED

Twenty-five New York school teachers, bound for a cruise to Alaska, are among the many passengers due to arrive here aboard the Grace liner Santa Rosa, at 8 o'clock this morning, local representatives reported yesterday. The vessel is bringing a capacity list of voyagers from all parts of the world. Captain Curt Zastrow is in command.

After discharging a fair consignment of freight here, the vessel will clear for Seattle, arriving there at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, daylight-saving time.

A party of tourists also is making the "Round-America" tour, coming to this coast via the Panama Canal, and returning to New York via rail, visiting the Century of Progress Exhibition in Chicago en route. The party comprises Mrs. Gladys Weston, Miss Lulu Stopenhagen, Frances Considine, Marie Sculley, Ruth Salmon, M. Walsh, Dorothy Lyon, Ethel Conklin, Emma Bitel, Edna Conklin, Miss E. G. Leary, and Miss Alice Collison.

Prominent among those on board are Charles Cawein, manager of the Chocolate Sales Company, returning from Los Angeles; and Miss Rae Massey, traffic manager of Frederick & Nelson Department Store in Seattle. Others returning from the East aboard the liner are: Miss Edith Dahlberg, Miss L. Olson, Lillian and Melba Brinsmead, Miss Frances Kuhl and Margaret Fennel, Miss Mather, Mr. and Mrs. Norberg, Miss Gladys Sexton, Miss Helen Tiligren, Nina Doyle, and Marjorie Hansen.

Substitute Ship For H. F. to Sail North Thursday

LATEST advices received here yesterday are to the effect that the City of Los Angeles, chartered by the Pacific Steamship Company to replace the H. F. Alexander, will make her first sailing out of this port on August 8.

She is scheduled to make her first trip north from Los Angeles on August 3. She will be used on the California run until repairs are completed on the H. F., which will be ready to resume service on August 29.

STATE GOVERNOR VISITING CANADA

VANCOUVER, July 28.—Arriving on the Canadian Pacific coastal liner Princess Marguerite, from Seattle, this morning after attending the U.S. State Executive convention at San Francisco, Governor John Garland Pollard, of Virginia, was a Vancouver visitor today, leaving by C.P.R. lines at 2:45 p.m. for Winnipeg, and the East.

Special interest is occasioned in Governor Pollard's present trip through Canada in view of the announcement at Richmond, Va., yesterday, of the forthcoming marriage of Miss Violet Elizabeth McDougall, an Ontario woman, who has been executive secretary to four Governors of Virginia, to Governor Pollard.

Governor Cross, of Connecticut, is another United States state executive who is taking the Canadian route homeward from the San Francisco conference and will leave Vancouver Monday for the East.

RUTH DELAYED BY HEAD WIND

Alexander Ship Docks Here Early in the Morning—Sails Tonight

Delayed by stiff head winds, the Ruth Alexander, of the Pacific Steamship Lines, docked from California ports at 2:30 o'clock yesterday morning with 300 passengers on board. Most of the Victoria passengers did not debark until after 6 o'clock in the morning, after which the Ruth proceeded to Seattle to load and take on passengers for the return trip.

She will sail from here tonight at 12 o'clock, arriving from Seattle at 10 o'clock to take on approximately 100 passengers here. Many inquiries have been made for reservations on the Ruth, owing to the disruption of the schedule due to the mishap to the H. F. Alexander, but all first class accommodation was sold long ago. Several young men, however, were given third class cabins with first class privileges, in order that they might keep their previous arrangements.

Victorians aboard the Ruth when she arrived here yesterday were: Miss Pearl Davidson, Miss Kathleen Graham, E. L. Humber, Miss Ada Raines, Miss Elizabeth Graham, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Gardiner, Rev. E. A. Kirkham, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Adams and Richard Winter.

Other passengers who debarked here proceeded to Vancouver to take the train for their overland destinations.

MUSKEG LIMITED TO LEAVE TODAY

Train Is Taking University Tour Party to Churchill, Hudson Bay New Seaport

WINNIPEG, July 28.—When the Muskeg Limited whistles out of The Pas, tomorrow, for Churchill, it will set a new high for tourist travel and romance over the northern seaport trail. No less than ten passengers are bound for the Hudson Bay terminal. Outstanding among them is a University of Minnesota party, led by Dr. Robert G. Green, professor of bacteriology. With him is W. J. Breckenridge, his assistant. Both men are accompanied by their wives, and therein lies a tale.

Originally the university party was to be the two males only. Then Mrs. Green decided she would accompany them into the hinterland. This was a cue for Breckenridge to decide the Churchhill journey would make a swell honeymoon trip and he approached his fiancee in the matter. Her decision that Churchill was as good as Deaville any day led to a whirlwind marriage and the following day they were en route to Winnipeg.

STUDYING DISEASE

Dr. Green and Breckenridge are studying tularemia, that sweeping disease causing a periodical die-off of game. They plan on trapping grouse and rabbit and examining the parasites, which are thought to be the tularemia germ carriers that live on the creatures. Dr. Green is of the opinion the cycle of game depletion can be lengthened and eventually eradicated.

Remainder of the party are J. C. Shields, Chicago building contractor, together with his wife and family. Mr. Shields has been to the southern tip of the continent and now wants to see its northern counterpart.

SHIP MISHAP IS BELITTLED

Passengers of Beached Northwestern Recount Details of Grounding

SEATTLE, July 28 (AP).—Eighty-six passengers of the Alaska liner Northwestern, which struck a reef and was beached early Tuesday near Juneau, arrived here today on a sister ship, the Aleutian, many of them belittling their experience.

They were ordered to take to the lifeboats after the crash, they said, but the boats were fastened to the stern of the ship, and towed until the Northwestern was beached, under its own steam, about two miles away.

A phonograph was placed on the after deck and played for them, they said, and buckets of hot coffee and sandwiches were sent down, while they were waiting for daybreak. The passengers were in the boats for three and one-half hours.

"The California passengers aboard insisted the crash felt just like an earthquake," said Dorothy Reickelman, of Cincinnati.

Before landing here, the passengers wirelessed a "good will" message to Captain John Livingstone, of the Northwestern, who remains aboard the beached ship, at Eagle River, Alaska. Messages have said it was not seriously damaged.

About forty members of the crew also came south on the Aleutian.

RAILWAY OFFICIAL IS VISITOR HERE

A. P. Chapman, Jr., Renews Old Acquaintances—Will Spend Week-End in Victoria

A. P. Chapman, Jr., former general agent for the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific Railway here, but now in Tacoma, arrived here yesterday for the week-end to renew old friendships he had when here a year ago.

Accompanying him was Mrs. Chapman. They will stay here for the week-end, Mr. Chapman having business to discuss with Eric Marshall and Dr. Clem Davies, who are organizing another tour to the Chicago Fair.

Mr. Chapman said that he had made arrangements to combine a Tacoma tour party with the Victoria one so as to make it an international group.

"I am pleased to meet my many friends again," Mr. Chapman said, after having spent the afternoon golfing with members of the shipping fraternity. He was the guest last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall, 1068 Bank Street.

Ss. Golden Gate Staves in Bow At Golden Gate

SAN FRANCISCO, July 28 (AP). — Two holes were stove in the bow of the freighter Golden Gate as it struck the end of Pier 32 while docking last night from British Columbia, but Matson Line officials said today the damage would be repaired while the vessel is loading, making a drydock trip unnecessary.

The freighter's scheduled sailing for Los Angeles, en route to New Zealand, was postponed from 5 p.m. Saturday to Sunday forenoon.

GOLD BUDDHAS ARE PRESENTED

Dollar Line Official Brings Home Valuable Ikons From Siam

SAN FRANCISCO, July 28.—Three beautifully-carved Buddhas, standing thirty-six inches high, and worth—no one knows how much—were grouped in a corner of Hugh Mackenzie's office this week, investing the Dollar Line official's workshop with the atmosphere of an objects d' art store.

Pressed for an explanation, Hugh explained they were gifts, respectively, to R. Stanley Dollar, J. Harold Dollar and himself from David E. Kaufmann, United States minister to Siam, who arrived in San Francisco aboard the President Coolidge.

But that isn't all of the story. It seems there is a law in Siam which forbids taking the sacred statues from the country. But when his gracious Majesty, King Prajadhipok, learned his good friend, Minister Kaukmann, had developed an attachment for the gold Buddhas, the king had the law temporarily repealed, until Mr. Kaufmann was on his way. The minister was allowed to depart with only four of the valuable ikons, one of which he kept for himself.

The Buddhas are covered with six layers of solid gold of twenty karat fineness. They differ from other Buddhas in that they are full-length figures with ornate filigree headdress that make them particularly attractive as objects d'art. No one would attempt to estimate their value.

WILL CONTINUE TAX COLLECTION

Dominion Government Will Levy on Oil Royalties Despite Ruling

OTTAWA, July 28 (CP).—Income tax department will continue to collect tax on income accruing from royalties, it was announced by department officials today, in spite of the adverse ruling delivered by the judicial committee of the Privy Council. This case, they declared, which was an appeal taken by Mrs. Katherien Spooner, involved peculiar circumstances.

It centred on an agreement whereby the moneys paid to Mrs. Spooner by an oil company in which she had invested were regarded as a return of capital paid into the property. This is not taxable, under the act. Royalties, however, are assessable.

The complainant, who sets up the claim that she is his lawful wife, alleges a second marriage by the accused.

The accused is on bail.

Empress of Asia Will Load Roofing Material and Fruit Here Today

PRESIDENT JACKSON IS ALSO OUTBOUND

Sailing from Vancouver at 11 a.m. this morning, the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Asia will dock here about 4 o'clock this afternoon to pick up freight and passengers for the Orient.

A trial shipment of loganberry wine will be taken aboard the Asia to Hongkong. The Growers' Wine Company is sending the consignment in an attempt to open a new market for the locally manufactured beverage. Other freight from here includes a large shipment of roofing material, and a heavy shipment of fruit, which will be put off here from the Santa Rosa from California ports for transshipment to Japan and China.

More than 200 passengers will sail on the Asia. Included among the passengers are Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Hale, of San Francisco, who are beginning a round-the-world tour; Benjamin Wolf, of New York; Mrs. A. S. Wyllie, of Vancouver, who is making a tour of Japan; and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Bergman and their two sons, of Stockholm. Mr. Bergman is a member of the Swedish Alliance Missionary Society, and he is en-route to Kobe.

The President Jackson, of the American Mail Line, also will dock here at 4 o'clock this afternoon from Seattle, bound for the Orient. She will be berthed at Ogden Point, owing to the arrival of the Asia at Rithet's pier at the same time.

BONDS LOWER IN IRREGULAR DRIFT

High-Grade Issues Mostly Steady at New York—Few Small Gains Registered

NEW YORK, July 28 (AP).—The bond market drifted irregularly lower today under the influence of sliding stocks, heavy commodities and a general scarcity of bids. It was an extremely quiet session despite the fact sales totaled $11,840,000, par value.

While the majority of high-grade issues maintained a steady to firm position, secondary groups were highly mixed. A few rails gained a point or more and a few industrials advanced one to two points.

United States Government securities rallied moderately in dull trading. Foreign obligations were mixed. British 5 1-2s firmed fractionally.

RETURNS AFTER LOST FIVE DAYS IN WOODS

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, July 28 (AP).—Lost for five days on a prospecting trip in the mountains south of here, after his horse had escaped from him and returned to Anchorage, Bert Dool, a business man, turned up safely today, suffering little from exposure.

The only food he had was wild currants, he said, and he slept nights under a mat of grass to baffle the mosquitoes. He finally found his way to a mountain cabin where a prospector lived.

Miss E. Curry Is Heroine in South

Miss Edna Curry, former Victorian and well known in amateur swimming circles here, was instrumental in saving a San Francisco boy's life by her knowledge of artificial respiration, it was learned yesterday from the South. Miss Curry has made her home in San Francisco since leaving here several years ago.

The following account of Miss Curry's action appeared in The San Francisco Chronicle:

"Edna Curry, girl swimmer of the Western Women's Club, yesterday saved the life of Tony Tentoni, sixteen, 2048 Stockton Street," by artificial respiration. Tentoni was swimming near the Dolphin Rowing Club at the foot of Van Ness Avenue when he suffered an attack of cramps. Miss Curry heard calls for help, sent Herbert Maunder, caretaker of the club, in a boat to bring Tentoni ashore and then worked over the stricken boy until an ambulance arrived."

FINANCE - COMMERCE - MARKETS

New York Stock Market Listless Before Holiday

NEW YORK, July 28 (AP). — Stocks had a rather heavy but thin and very dull market today as commodities skidded and foreign exchanges cut capers.

Facing a holiday tomorrow, stocks were listless. Volume subsided to 1,390,555 shares, the smallest market in weeks, even with allowance for the restricted hours.

Losses averaged into a net decline of 2 points. American Telephone, Republic Steel, National Steel, American Can, Western Union, Union Carbide, Industrial Rayon, United States Rubber, Auburn and Columbian Carbon were off in the neighborhood of 2 points. Case and Celanese lost about 3, while for United States Steel, Westinghouse, General Motors, General Electric, Sears Roebuck, North American and a number of rails the recession approximated a point.

Gold stocks again dragged.

Dunn & Bradstreet Mercantile Review said the normal mid-Summer trade recession was "but faintly discernible" and that "the strength of the buying movement has proved insensitive to the repercussions of falling commodity and security values."

SLOW SESSION AT VANCOUVER

Levels Easier at Close—Bralorne and Native Son Up

VANCOUVER, July 28 (CP). — Active issues went through another draggy session on the Vancouver Stock Exchange today and at the close price levels were slightly easier.

With the exception of small flurries in several of the gold and oil leaders, interest was lacking and active issues drifted lower. C. & E. Corporation again led in point of activity and closed at 1.49, for a gain of 3. Crow's Nest was fairly active and registered a fractional advance. Freehold gained 1 1-2 to 14 1-2, while Amalgamated was 2 1-2 higher at 16 1-2.

Home lost 20 to 2.40 and Sterling Pacific was off 1 to 44. A.P. Consolidated slipped 1 to 29.

The only golds to show firmness were Bralorne, which was up 15 to 9.30, and Native Son, which was up 2 1-4 to 9 3-4.

Reno was off 9 to 2.12, Meridian lost 6 to 48, Wayside eased 4 to 58, Cariboo was off 5 to 2.95, Bridge River Exploration at 53 was down 2, and Pend Oreille lost 1 to 1.29.

Silver shares were almost entirely neglected and generally weaker.

The exchange will be closed tomorrow (Saturday) following a like decision by United States and Eastern Canadian stock exchanges.

WHEAT'S CLIMB ENDS IN DROP

Winnipeg Market Sent Into Tailspin by Nerves and Profit-Taking

WINNIPEG, July 28 (CP).—Unable to withstand the barrage of selling laid down by nervous wheat holders, Winnipeg Grain Market went into a tailspin today after four days of rising prices.

Profit-taking, induced by continued lack of interest displayed by foreign buyers, quickly ran prices into stop-loss selling that left values 7 3-8 to 6 5-8 cents lower.

Only slightly above the low points for the day, July future closed at 81 1-4, October 83 3-8, December 85 3-8, and May 89 1-4 cents. Trade was active practically all session. Led by flax which lost 10 cents, coarse grains prices flopped also.

Sons of Canada	6	8	.429

Next game today at 6:15 p.m., Royal Athletic Park. Tillicums vs. Cameron's.

Smashing out seven runs on eight hits and holding their rivals to a lone tally, Sons of Canada gave the Tillicums ball club a bad pasting last night at the Royal Athletic Park. The game was played in a downpour which necessitated calling it in the sixth. By virtue of their win the Sons of Canada go into a tie with Slingers for third position. Lloyd Cann chucked well for the Sons, holding the youthful Tillicums to three hits.

Although their hitting was weak the Tillicums put up a strong battle in the field with Fleming and Chapman in the gardens making some fine catches. Bill Holman had a fine day at bat lacing out two doubles in three trips.

SONS REGISTER

In the first inning Campbell singled and came home on Herb Doherty's mighty double to left field for the Sons' first tally. The clubmen were retired in quick order in their half of the inning. In the second frame Bill Holman socked out his first double of the day to score Hilton, who was on first after a single. Holman went to third on Jones' wild pitch and came home on Kim Campbell's grounder to Walter Stipe, at second for the clubmen, who pitched home but failed to get the runner. Campbell tried to steal and was caught between first and second by Moore and Stipe. Haines' single went through Gibbons at short for an error and Haines scored when Jack Bacon hit one to centre for a lone base.

CHAPMAN HITS DOUBLE

Tillicums came to bat but Art Chapman's healthy double to right field was the only noticeable event of the inning. The Sons went up and then went down in one-two-three order.

Tillicums had an excellent chance to square up the score in the third, when they had three bases loaded and two men down. Fleming started the ball rolling with a pretty double through Bill Holman at centre field. Stipe caught on to one and boosted it for a single. Moore hit one to short and Doherty's error on the first sack gave him a life, with Walter Stipe getting to third on the play. Meanwhile, Moore stole second while the Sons were attempting to throw out Stipe at third. Gibbons struck out and Patrick walked to fill the bases. Art Chapman ended the agony when he laced one into second base for the third out.

DISASTROUS FOURTH

In their half of the fourth, Holman doubled a second time, stole third and went home on Jones' wild pitch. Cann struck out and Kim Campbell got on first, stole second and came to third when Jones pitched wildly. Haines singled and Campbell came home. Bacon got to first on Taylor's error and a double steal put Haines on third and Bacon on second. A passed ball and Haines scored. Gandy cleared the sacks with a beautiful triple making the total run list in the inning amount to four.

There was no further scoring in the game and a heavy rain caused Umpire Allie McGregor to call the game at the end of the sixth.

Action in British Columbia Tennis Meeting

What's What, and What's Hot at the Willows

(B.C. Tennis Championships)

By H.T.M.

Now, what about the finals? Will John Murio flatten-out Charlie Hunt in the singles—or, will Charlie Hunt flatten-out John Murio? In the same breath, will Hunt and Russell utterly destroy Murio and Kenneally—or, will Murio and Kenneally push Hunt and Russell clean through the turf and substrata of black loam, and then peg them, for all time, into the underlying clay? Who knows, who knows? And, what of the ladies? Will Mary Campbell (our solitary but most memorable home-town hope), badger Miss Bundy into an hysterical ruin—or, will Miss Bundy blast Mary clean off the courts, and into a passing No. 11 street car? Ah, my dear brethern, it is not for such a doddering poltroon as I to venture by wanton hazard or by trifling words what the issues of the finals will be today. The results, of course, will be emblazoned on the pages of the local press—but why wait for the sonorous rumblings of ten thousand cogwheels, and ink-soaked rollers—or, for the following brayings of the "Newsies," that so flagrantly flap the morning and evening journals in our comic faces? Why not apply the "personal touch"?—and literally appear in person? (Warning! If you don't, you'll go to your graves with an everlasting regret! I have spoken!!)

Now, yester morn was passing calm, and yester morn was fair . . . hence, 'twas more than fitting, that the ladies "held court." Mary Campbell beat the formidable Mrs. Gross, 7-5, 6-2, and that was no paltry victory! That first set was a sizzler—and Mrs. Gross very nearly tweaked it off the very tip of Mary's racquet! But, Mary's a "sticker"—a veritable "tennis leech." The more you worry her, the happier she becomes—and, as Mrs. Gross worried her like nothing human, so did Mary become uproariously happy, and eventually—triumphant! (So, salaams to Mary Campbell—and may she prosper, in the finals. Go to! Go to! Thou art a doughty maid!)

More memorable than this match, though, was a gargantuan and grandiose clash between Miss Wheeler and Miss Bundy. These delicious young ladies fought for two and a half hours, in the tensest and closest feminine exhibition in this tourney. Their tennis was excellent. Both hit like young cavewomen, and both quiver with courtcraft, and true feminine wiliness. A sturdy match, this—and eventually, Miss Bundy tucked it up her sleeve, to the tune of 10-8, 9-6, 12-10!

In the afternoon, Bud Hocking didn't do "quite so well," against Hunt. After dropping two sets, he played brusquely to win the third, and, at 4-2, looked likely to bag the fourth. But, at 2-4, Hunt set a tight jaw, and soon bored his way to conquest. (Both played clean, flashy tennis—in spots.)

John Murio walloped the inimitable Mr. Sabin, 6-2, 6-0, 6-2—and that was a mild surprise. Sabin's back-hand, that has drawn so much admiration, all through this tournament, seemed only in fair health, while his fore-hand seemed decidedly "under the weather," and possibly running a slight temperature, to boot. But Mr. Sabin took his trouncing with superb equanimity. (He's quite a personage, and quite a philosopher, is Mr. Sabin, and little catastrophies like that, don't worry him, a bit!)

John Murio played formidably. He was evidently in no nood to miss. Head, down—with a bit of a crouch to his wrought-iron frame—then, a fairly short back-swing—and "then, "klop," with a curved "follow through," and the ball screams into a corner, for an "ace!" That's something like John Murio—and he wears a hat! Oh my yes! You've got to see that hat! It's quite an affair!!

Two very memorable men's doubles followed, in which Hunt and Russell subdued Underwood and Lichtenberger (6-1, 6-2, 6-4), while Murio and Kenneally tossed Pommer and Brown into the "great hereafter," to the clatter of 12-10, 10-12, 6-2, 6-2.

Hunt and Russell play beautifully together. When you stop to reck that Hunt is nineteen, and Russell, only seventeen, you'll have to admit that it's quite miraculous the way these youngsters use their racquets—AND THEIR CONKS! For, by all that's startling and incredulous to old fogies like you and I, these kids play with all the seasoning, craftiness, generalship and cool-headedness of veteran campaigners. Moreover, their "court manners" are the sort that force us pompous old Britishers to wheeze, "Bravo! Bravo! Jolly young sportsmen—and jolly young gentlemen, too, by gad!"—and, ain't that somepin'? (Chorus—"Yea, oh, yea!"

The Murio-Kenneally vs. Pommer and Brown match was just what any match against Pommer and Brown would be expected to be (excuse bad grammar)—that's to say—wierd! I won't go into details—except that there were eight million lobs, and consequently eight million smashes—and the scores have already been noted, in this saga.

Mary Campbell and Mrs. Wilson ate up Mesdamoiselles Doeg and Bundy, 6-3, 6-2—even as Mrs. Gross and Miss Wheeler devoured Helen Campbell and Mona Miller, 6-3, 6-0. (Neither of these matches were particularly runcible, and, therefore, are not deserving to be chronicled, at great length. (Sufficient unto the day!)

Rain had been fooling around ever since 4 o'clock seventeen drops fell at 4:17 p.m., and thirty-five more had oozed out of the firmament by 4:57 3-4 p.m.), but by 5:30 p.m., a puny, but nevertheless aggravating patter could be heard all over the grandstand, and surrounding country. And just then, two "mixeds" had the misfortune to have to go to work. On No. 1, Mrs. Wilson and Williams took short measure of Mrs. Gross and Budge (I must say Mrs. Wilson and Williams played very worthily, indeed), and as soon as this finished, all players scuttled, rabbit-like, for shelter.

The others, however, were not so fortunate. On No. 2, Miss Bundy and Russell, and Miss Doeg and Untelaftter, were having quite a slithery time. The court was juicy, and the balls were getting brownish and soggy—like over-ripe casabas. Consequently the play became a trifle delerious. And, as it was so very, very wet—and, as my rheumatism, and my lumbago, and my sciatica are so very, very poignant—well, what was an old buzzard to do but hobble away, and leave them to their fate? (So I did. But today's the day of days, and, if the rain stays up, and the weather has even the slightest sense of decency and decorum, you'll see some very satisfying tennis.)

That's all! Enough of these palsied droolings! 'Tis late—and I must spear a gavotte, or two, at the dance. ("May I—Miss Popely?" "Why—chasaahmed, Mr. Twirlbotham! And aren't the tulips gorgeous, against the mauve balcony?" "Beautiful, my dear Miss Popely! Will tread me a measure, my love?" "Oh, Mr. Twirlbotham!" —and so forth. The days of chivalry are just about over, and this may be our last chance! "Whaddava say, bebby? Let's go!" "Oke!")

Harry Heilmann, former Detroit star, was once quoted as saying: "I'll bet Fothergill would play for nothing. Just give him a big club and let him take his turn at bat."

U.S. OARSMEN BIG WINNERS

Buffalo Crews Capture Seven Canadian Championships at Henley Regatta

PORT DALHOUSIE, Ont., July 28 (CP).—Pointing for a second straight Royal Canadian Henley regatta championship, Buffalo West Sides held seven national titles tonight as they prepared to battle for a share of the eleven crowns still unwon.

The invaders, youthful, unorthodox, today outshone the best efforts of Canadian clubs on the second day of the Henley meet, won four titles and added them to the trio they picked up yesterday to take a clear lead in the club standing.

The youthful Buifalo band cleaned up in the junior eights, junior doubles, the international 140-pound fours and intermediate 150-pound fours.

Brockville oarsmen won two national crowns in the only club performance that rivalled West Sides. V. Price took the junior singles title to Brockville and his mates won the junior 140-pound eights. Toronto Argonauts won the junior 140-pound singles, Hamilton the 150-pound eights, and Toronto Dons the junior 140-pound doubles, because no one else was entered.

WASHINGTON MAN WINS

P. L. Brower, wealthy Washington, D.C., sculler, who scratched his entry in the quarter-mile dash Joe Wright, Jr., won yesterday, took the association singles with a length win over Ron Ingraham, of Saint John, N.B., in 8:05. D. Wallace, of Halifax Jubilee's, took third place.

Hamilton Leanders and Wyandotte, Michigan, qualified to get into the final of the senior eights, tomorrow, with the junior West Side crew. The Canadian Olympic representatives won their heat from West Side seniors by half a length in 6:39 1-2, and Wyandottes led University of Toronto across the finish line by three lengths, in 6:50.

Remember When

(Twenty-Five Years Ago)

Cricket week in Victoria promises to be exceptionally lively. There will be, according to reports, eight teams here between August 17 and 22, all after the pennant of the Pacific Northwest. Local cricketers are preparing to give the visitors a bully time.

Willie's Wonders meet the Athletics of Seattle next Saturday. The game should be interesting as the latter were able, on the occasion of their last visit, to win by a narrow margin. The locals are confident they will reverse the decision Saturday.

Pittsburgh is still leading the National League, having won 54 and lost 35 for an average of .607. Chicago Cubs are second with an average of .586. New York Giants are only half a game behind the Cubs. Detroit Tigers have a good lead in the American with 56 wins and 34 losses for an average of .622. St. Louis is second with 53 wins and 38 losses for an average of .582. Chicago is next.

It was a decided disappointment to tennis followers when it was learned yesterday that Bernie Schwengers would not play in the men's doubles at the present tourney in progress. The holding of the men's singles title bars him from competing in that class. Yesterday Miss Bell, of this city, defeated Miss Beckett, Vancouver, 1-6, 8-6, 6-2. Several other matches were closely fought.

On Saturday afternoon members of the Victoria Yacht Club will take possession of their new building, fronting on the Inner Harbor. The formal opening will take place on August 8 and Premier and Mrs. McBride will attend.

Winooka to Race In Special Event Today, Tanforan

SAN BRUNO, Cal., July 28 (AP).—Heralded by backers as "the wonder horse of Australia," Winooka will make his American debut at Tanforan track here tomorrow, meeting Frisky Matron, speedy California-bred filly, in a special $10,000 match race.

The latest racing importation from the Antipodes has spent a long period of training since his arrival and his speed in trial dashes has impressed observers.

FULLIS GAINS BIG SIX PLACE

Phillies' Batter Moves Into Select Half Dozen Batters After Big Day

Chick Fullis walloped four hits in six times up in the Phillies' slugging match against Boston yesterday and tore past Sparky Vaughan, of Pittsburgh, into third place in the National League batting race to give the Phils three members of the Big Six again. Fullis' hits were good for a four-point gain, bringing his average up to .337.

Spud Davis, who retired after hitting "two for two," equaled that gain, but Chuck Klein, Big Six leader, was just able to hold his mark at the .370 level by hitting twice in five times up. All the American League leaders were idle.

SHIELDS WINS TENNIS TITLE

Defeats Gregory Mangin in Straight Sets in Seabright Tourney

SEABRIGHT, N.J., July 28 (AP).—Big Frank Shields, of New York, America's fifth-ranked tennis star, today captured the classic Seabright invitation tournament's main prize—the men's single championship—by decisively outplaying Gregory Mangin, of Newark, the United States indoor champion, to win in straight sets, 6-1, 6-3, 6-1.

Josephine Cruickshank and Alice Marble won the women's doubles title, defeating Virgina Race and Marjory Sachs, 6-2, 6-1.

West Indies Wins In Decisive Style

NEWCASTLE, England, July 28 (CP). — The British West Indies touring cricket team today won its match against Northumberland by an innings and 183 runs, the most sensational victory of its campaign in the United Kingdom.

The visitors amassed the fine total of 440 in the first innings, while the best the home team could do was 129 in the first innings and 128 in the second.

MARY CAMPBELL AND DOROTHY BUNDY WILL SEEK SINGLES CROWN

Murio and Hunt in Men's Final—Mrs. R. B. Wilson Playing Brilliant Tennis, in Two Finals —Yesterday's Play Featured by Many Long Matches—Governor to Present Trophies

Victoria will have three players in the final round of the British Columbia lawn tennis championships today when Mary Campbell meets Dorothy Bundy, of Santa Monica, in the women's singles and then pairs with Mrs. R. B. Wilson to take the court against Mrs. Golda Meyer Gross and Miss Gracyn Wheeler in the women's doubles event. In the third final with local representation, Mrs. Wilson will pair with Dunc Williams against the winner of the Bundy-Russell vs. Doeg-Underwood match.

Yesterday's play produced by far the finest exhibitions seen during the present tournament, some astoundingly long matches, and one or two minor upsets. Playing an unbeatable brand of tennis, Mary Campbell defeated Mrs. Golda Meyer Gross, of Berkeley, 7-5, 6-2, in the upper bracket semi-final, while Dorothy Bundy, of Santa Monica, blasted her way to a glorious victory over Gracyn Wheeler, also of Santa Monica, and a hot favorite to win the crown, in a grueling three-set match which lasted two and a half hours. Time after time Miss Wheeler rallied desperately in an effort to pull the game out of the fire, especially in the second set which she took, 6-2. In the last bitter stanza, the two women could not break through, each winning her own service until the score stood at 10-all. At last, however, Miss Wheeler weakened slightly and Miss Bundy drove through to take the set and match at 10-8, 2-6, 12-10.

DOUBLES MATCH THRILLING

In spite of the one-sided score, the semi-final men's doubles between Charlea Hunt and Ed Russell and Bob Underwood and B. Lichtenberger was by far the most outstanding match of the day. Hunt and Russell won in straight sets, 6-1, 6-2, 6-4, but the brand of play turned in by all four men was as near perfect as could be seen on any court. Bob Underwood, sixteen years old, played sensationally, returning innumerable net smashes of both Hunt's and Russell's, which in the ordinary course of events would be considered impossible to reach. The blond young San Francisco dynamo, however, seemed to be all over the court at once, and in spite of his short stature, was picking shots out of the air from all angles and heights.

His work, however, did little good. Hunt and Russell were too steady and played too well together. They smashed their way through to a brilliant victory, making few faults and never for a moment slackening their burning pace.

In the other bracket, John Murio and Martin Kinneally eliminated Harold Brown and Bob Pommer, after a two and a half hour marathon, 21-19, 10-12, 6-2, 6-2. Neither pair could make headway for the first two sets but the superior strength and lasting power of the older men told in the final sets, which they raced through without effort.

MRS. WILSON STARS

The women's doubles brought something of a surprise when the local pair of Mrs. R. B. Wilson and Mary Campbell defeated Miss Dorothy Bundy and May Doeg, 6-3, 6-2. The offensive tactics of the Victorians and their consistently good net play had the Americans at a disadvantage throughout, and they were never at any time dangerous.

Two other Victorians fell by the wayside, however, when Mrs. Gross and Gracyn Wheeler eliminated Jean Campbell and Mona Miller, 6-3, 6-0. The issue was never in doubt in this match, with the two Southern aces playing steady tennis throughout.

Mrs. Wilson and Dunc Williams scored a notable victory when they blasted the hopes of finalists' honors for Mrs. Gross and Lloyd Budge, by defeating them 6-1, 7-5. Budge's scorching service apparently had no effect upon the local stars, who were seldom aced. Dunc Williams' volleying and accuracy on his net-smashes played a large part in their success, although Mrs. Wilson turned in a fine game, taking everything that either Budge or Mrs. Gross could send over. Her play throughout the tourney has been of the most outstanding calibre.

Dorothy Bundy and Ed Russell took the first set from Bob Underwood and May Doeg, 13-11, in their semi-final bracket, last night, before the game was halted on account of rain and darkness. Both teams were playing strong tennis, and thrilled the crowd that braved the elements with their long rallies and overhead smashes. All four are excellent net players, and staged one of the bitterest contests of the week.

FINALS TODAY

Today's finals will commence at 1:30, when Charles Hunt meets John Murio for the men's singles open championship of British Columbia. At the same time, Bob Underwood will meet Harold Parfitt, of Victoria, in the semi-final of the men's consolation singles.

At 2 o'clock, Dorothy Bundy and Mary Campbell will fight it out for the women's singles crown on No. 1 court, while Mona Miller and May Doeg, of Santa Monica, decide the women's consolation singles.

At 2:30, H. G. Garrett will play W. Merston in the veterans' singles final.

The men's doubles final between John Murio and Martin Kinneally vs. Charles Hunt and Ed Russell, is scheduled for No. 1 court at 3:30. At the same time, Mrs. R. B. Wilson and Miss Mary Campbell will meet Mrs. Golda Meyer Gross and Miss Gracyn Wheeler. Harry Goldman will play the winner of the Underwood-Parfitt match for the men's consolation singles crown at the same time.

Five o'clock will see the finals of the mixed doubles, when Mrs. Wilson and Dunc Williams meet the winners of the Miss Bundy and Russell vs. Miss Doeg and Underwood match. This match will be finished this morning at 11 o'clock.

GOVERNOR WILL ATTEND

Following the last match, His Honor J. W. Fordham Johnson will present the prizes.

Who lost her British Columbia women's singles tennis crown yesterday at the Willows when she went down to defeat before the strong play of Dorothy Bundy in a thrilling struggle, 10-8, 2-6, 12-10. The result was an upset, many figuring Miss Wheeler an odds-on favorite to keep her title. Today Miss Bundy will meet Mary Campbell Victoria's best, for the championship.

ENGLAND WINS OPENING SINGLES FROM FRANCE

Perry and Austin Defeat Cochet and Merlin in Openers

Young English Tennis Stars Capture Opening Matches to Gain Commanding Lead in Final for Davis Cup—Doubles Match Scheduled Today—England Favored to Lift Cup

By MELVIN WHITELEATHER
Associated Press Staff Writer.

AUTEUIL, France, July 28.—The French Davis Cup tennis defence crumbled unexpectedly today with the defeat of Henri Cochet in the singles, and England smashed through for two victories that forecast, simultaneously, the end of France's six-year reign and the first British triumph since 1912.

Cochet, dapper little Frenchman who was regarded only two years ago as the world's premier player, went down before the powerhouse attack of Fred Perry, twenty-four-year-old top-ranking British star, and with him toppled the slim French hopes of sustaining their hold on the international trophy.

Perry fainted from fatigue in the dressing-room afterwards, but there was no sign of distress as the stalwart Briton trounced the great Cochet in the fifth set of an otherwise hard-fought match, decided by scores of 8-10, 6-4, 8-6, 3-6, 6-1.

Following the decisive victory of Henry W. ("Bunny") Austin over the youthful Andre Merlin, newcomer to Davis Cup play, by scores of 6-3, 6-4, 6-0, England thus gained a 2-0 lead and now needs only one more match to clinch the series and take the historic cup across the Channel.

NEED THREE VICTORIES

France, in order to keep the trophy won from the United States at Germantown in 1927 and successfully defended five times by her famous "Musketeers," would have to win all three of the remaining matches. The defenders only have a fair chance to pull out the doubles tomorrow, with the veteran Jacques Brugnon and Jean Borotra in good form, but no one expects Merlin to stop Perry in the singles Sunday, or Cochet to have any advantage over Austin.

Merlin got off to a good start by taking the opening game at love, but Austin's careful play squared the count in the second. Then he broke through his rival's service for a 2-1 lead.

Austin took advantage of the Frenchman's wildness to win the fourth game. "Bunny" ran his lead to 4-1 on another service break, but lost his own delivery in the sixth. Austin ran out the set at 6-3.

Wearing a jockey cap, he speeded up his pace in the second set and quickly gained a lead of 4-0. The heat was stifling.

CROWD UPSETS AUSTIN

Austin handed his adversary the fifth game by twice double-faulting. The crowd appeared to upset Austin and the umpire requested less noise during the rallies. Merlin then took straight games at love and squared the count at four-all.

"Bunny" pulled himself together to take the ninth game on his own service, then won the tenth and the set at 6-4, on Merlin's service.

Austin served a love game to start the third set.

He steadily piled up a lead. Merlin continued to play aggressively and deuced the fourth game six times before he yielded 8-6, on his own service. Austin scored at love in the fifth game, and gained another service break in the sixth for the love set and the match.

COCHET IN SHORTS

Henri Cochet, upon whom French hopes depended, wore shorts as he took the court against Fred Perry, British No. 1.

Cochet made his own service good in the opening game and broke through Perry for a 2-0 lead.

The robust Englishman took his first game on a break through Cochet's service. Then he double-faulted twice and Cochet took a 3-1 lead.

Cochet foraged at the net to capture the fifth game, but Perry then scored at Love behind his service, broke through his rival's delivery in the seventh and squared the count at four-all.

Cochet's service prevailed in the ninth. They engaged in a lively volleying session in the tenth game, which the Briton won.

Games followed service as the set was deuced three more times. Perry pulled off some dazzling drives and held his own at volleying, but double-faulted at a critical moment in the eighteenth game, and gave Cochet the set at 10-8.

Cochet's faulty strategy cost him the first game of the second set and Perry's powerful drives dominated the second game. But Cochet braved his defence, broke through Perry's service in the fourth game and forged ahead at 3-2 on his own delivery.

The final game was at love as Perry completed the second set with the loss of only four points in the last four games.

LITTLE BETWEEN PLAYERS

Cochet took a 3-2 advantage in the third set. The Frenchman was hitting with more accuracy overhead, but there was little difference in shotmaking.

Perry lost his service again in the sixth game, trailing 2-4, then put on a comeback that carried through four successive games for the set. Some of the sting was missing from Cochet's returns and Perry won, 6-4, on his own service.

Cochet raced into the lead at 5-3 with two love games in a row. Perry rallied at set point in the ninth game, made his own service good in the tenth, and broke through Cochet in the eleventh. The Frenchace retaliated in the twelfth with scintillating cross-court shots. But the Englishman pulled out the set at 8-6.

Cochet captured the first game of the fourth set and Perry annexed the second, with service.

Cochet dropped the third game at love on his own errors and Perry took a 3-1 lead. Here the Frenchman put on a dazzling rally and brought the count up to three-all. Henri took the seventh easily and again broke through in the eighth.

The Frenchman got a tremendous hand from the crowd as he made it five games in a row for the set at 6-3.

FIVE STRAIGHT GAMES

Perry, keeping his own service intact at the outset of the fifth set, broke through Cochet in the second game and then took a 3-0 lead. The Briton quickly pushed his advantage as the Frenchman faltered and passed his rival repeatedly. Perry won five straight games, scoring another break in the fourth.

Cochet finally pulled out his service in the sixth game, but with victory in his grasp, Perry rushed through the seventh game for the set at 6-1, and the match.

COALMONT, B.C., July 28 (CP).—The touring Nanaimo soccer team defeated Coalmont here last night by a score of six to nothing.

LADYSMITH SOFTBALL

LADYSMITH, July 28.—In a hotly contested battle to decide which team should represent Ladysmith in the British Columbia softball playoffs, Ryan's flashy young aggregation eliminated the Dominics, by a score of 9 to 6, in the game here last night in the Agricultural Sports Ground.

Although generally fancied to win the series, after their defeat of the Barr & Anderson team, last year's British Columbia champions, at Newcastle Island, last Sunday, the Dominics, although leading in the sixth by 6 to 5, could not stop the enthusiastic hitting of the Ryan batters.

The Ryans will probably meet the Motor Levels, the winners of the Nanaimo series, in the next round of the Provincial play-offs.

Batteries for the game were Alvano, Edmunds and Doumont for the Dominics and Timothy and Lauderbach for Ryans. R. Battle and T. Battle umpired.

WIFE FOR SALE
BY KATHLEEN NORRIS

CHAPTER I

Norah Oliver closed the door of her mother's bedroom noiselessly behind her, and looked vaguely, disconsolately, about the little apartment-house kitchen. She crossed to the table, sat down at it, with her elbows on the oilcloth and her chin cupped in her hands, and for a long while stared into space.

The prospect within her immediate line of vision was anything but inspiring, but Norah saw none of it. She was completely unaware of the actual scene about her; her mind was many miles away.

It was four o'clock on a Winter afternoon; in the kitchen dusk had already descended. The kitchen window commanded an irregular airshaft, whose shape was determined by rising tenement walls and jutting angles of fire escapes and neighboring kitchen windows. Garbage tins, old brooms, and dangling lines of washed clothes variously decorated the prospect, and beyond them and above them hung a heavy roof of dark sky.

By dangling out of the window anyone in the Oliver flat could see the flooring of the shaft carpeted deep in old rags, rubbish, papers, tins, five flights below. Noises were usually ascending from this area: voices, crying, phonographs, the hissing of running water, the sizzle of frying food. Odors often mounted too; the Olivers knew when the Hungarians on the second floor were frying onions in oil and when the Reilleys were having boiled cabbage.

Neither noises nor odors disturbed Norah today. She was sunk in despairing thought. Life had never been particularly easy for her, but somehow she had always taken it serenely enough until just lately, until this last year or two. Now it seemed to be getting harder and darker and more puzzling day by day. Norah felt tired and bewildered. She spoke aloud in the silent kitchen, "I don't know what to do!"

A hurt and angry expression gradually took possession of her face; her eyes filled slowly with tears. She made no effort to wipe the tears away.

"I feel—beaten!" she finally whispered. And then, bestirring herself and getting to her feet, she added sensibly, "this doesn't do any good! I might as well get to work!"

An invalid's tray with tea, grey and cooling, in a cup and a remnant of cold buttered toast upon it was standing upon the table. There were unwashed dishes in the sink and packages from the grocery were piled upon the sink board.

All these demanded Norah's too familiar care. She attacked them patiently, if wearily. Dishes and dishes; they never were done. Why weren't there wood-fiber dishes in pretty designs that could be burned after every meal? Her active brain, as she cleared the tray and arranged it for the next little meal, played with the idea. Mother's doctor had said "light nourishment every three or four hours." She had had tea and toast at two o'clock, at six she might have—she might have the rest of the soup—and crackers and cream cheese—when her mother was ill Norah loved to take care of her, and washing dishes for an invalid was the least one could do.

She filled the heavy kettle and put it on the stove, lighting a gas flame under it. There never was much hot water on Mondays because all the women in the house brushed on that day.

The potatoes among the packages from the grocery, were tumbled with a little rush of earthly dust into a box on the fire escape; Norah reserved three to bake. Keith would eat one, Eve would eat part of one—better make it three, for Keith might be extra hungry. The rest of the dinner would be the stew.

She took it in from the ice-box; it looked frozen and grease-flaked, it smelled bleakly of cold onion, cold turnip. It it were made very hot, of course, or if she made a nice, fluffy crust with which to cover it—it could bake while the potatoes were baking.

Norah reviewed the menu for the evening meal unenthusiastically: "Stew, baked potatoes, bread, tea, doughnuts, and there are prunes if anyone wants them, and there are oranges."

Disgusting, gloomy afternoon, disgusting airshaft all noises and smells, disgusting apartment house in a slummy street. What a horrible world this world could be! And if Norah Oliver, twenty-four years old, thought so, how much more horrible it must seem to the sick persons in the house and the mothers with lots of children to bring up.

Mrs. Flynn had made this smelly stiff, cold stew on Saturday, when she had come to clean the house. It had been a pot roast then; both Eve and Keith had approved of it. Yesterday it had been a re-heated pot roast, but Mother hadn't wanted any, Keith had been away of course, with Anne. Larry Carter had taken Eve off for dinner, and Norah had been satisfied to share the second-day meat with Uncle Rodney, who had turned up, as usual, just about dinner-time.

Now, awaiting its third appearance, it seemed to Norah positively revolting.

"I wonder what Mother would do with this? She always has things so nice."

And Norah determined that when her mother called her she would ask the question. Presently Mrs. Oliver did call, feebly and thickly, from the adjoining bedroom, and Norah went in.

Darkness was in the sickroom, and the odors of flannel and medicine. The form on the bed stirred.

"Awake, darling?"

"I was only drowsing. What time is it, Norah?"

"About five. Any pain?"

"Just——" Mrs. Oliver laughed feebly. "Just comfortable pain," she said. "It's nothing after yesterday. I'll be up tomorrow."

"Yes, you will!" the daughter scoffed affectionately. She straightened covers, snapped up a light. "Hungry?" she asked.

"Well, not entirely indifferent to food," the sick woman admitted cheerfully. "And I feel very guilty," she added, "keeping you away from your job in these times with jobs what they are."

Norah made no comment upon this; she was putting a neat stack of magazines on a table shelf.

Her mother looked at her sharply as the girl turned again toward the bed.

"Norah. You've been crying?"

Norah sat down on the edge of the bed, and laid her hand over the older woman's frail one.

"Don't you know that you oughtn't to notice things like that, my dear child?"

"What's making you blue?" her mother countered, by way of answer, in a concerned and tender tone.

"Nothing special," Norah anawered composedly, after thought.

"Is it David?"

The girl, looking down, raised her eyelashes for a quick look, "partly, maybe."

"Where is he now, Norah?"

"Where is he, Mother?" Norah was honestly surprised.

"Yes. Is he right here—at home, I mean, over on Park Avenue?"

"Why, I suppose so. I don't know anything to the contrary."

Mrs. Oliver considered this for a moment of silence; her anxious eyes did not leave her daughter's face. "Funny!" she presently said unhappily.

"Is it?" Norah asked. "Aren't men always doing that—rushing girls—liking them for a while, and then wondering how they can ease it off most quickly and most completely?"

"You didn't quarrel, dear?"

"Ah, if we had!" Norah half laughed, half wailed.

"It was Daddy's death, it was our moving to this dreadful place," the mother said restlessly. "You were in mourning; you were working when most of the girls David knew were just having a good time."

"I was working when I met Dave."

"Yes, I know. But Daddy was living then, we had a so much nicer place."

Norah sat silent, rubbing her mother's hand with her firm young thumb.

"You don't think David—cares any more, dear?"

The girl spoke steadily in a voice of pain:

"I'm afraid I know he doesn't, Mother. I'm not going to—to die of it. I like him—tremendously, better than any man I've ever seen. But I've done all I can to—let him know. I've telephoned—I've telephoned his house—and gotten his mother, very polite and clear and cool! I've written him little notes, on one excuse or another, and I sent him a book we had talked about——"

A silence. Then Norah added, "I can't do any more than that, Can I?"

Her mother's delicate, sensitive face was full of trouble. "If we could have him here and have a nice little dinner in the dining-room—" she began, and hesitated.

"The last time he came," Norah recalled, "Keith was to be here and balance the table, and Keith had to work and didn't come home. Old Mrs. Francis came, and we had to keep her for dinner. It was the hottest May night since the weather bureau began keeping statistics. And the Reilley's phonograph and the Andullan baby had their semi-finals down the airshaft."

"No," Norah ended, as her mother, distressed, did not speak. "I'll get over it and a lot of other things, and everything will come out all right. If a man doesn't want to stand by me in hard times, he isn't my man after all. David's young, and he's popular—everyone is making a fuss about him—it's natural enough. I've just got to put him out of my mind, that's all."

"It's all so hard for you," the mother mourned. "If you had pretty gowns, and could accept nice invitations——"

"But as it is," she added, "I don't see how we dare move. Keith was talking to me so seriously yesterday; he says that Baker and Bayne may have to lay off more men—he doesn't say for long, of course, but I could see it worried him."

"Did Keith say that?" Norah asked in an odd voice. But she waited for no answer. With a cheerful reference to soup and crackers she abruptly rose, and her mother could presently hear her humming cheerfully as she busied herself in the kitchen.

After a while she heard the outer door slam, and Keith's voice, sonorous, magnificent.

"Come, my girl, this sort of shillyshallying will get you nowhere! What's that intended to be?"

Norah's answer came trembling, obsequious, "It's meat pie, Your Worship. I thought Your Worship might relish some of our country beef."

"Look to it then, wench," Keith said sternly. "And mind you keep a civil tongue in your head." And crossing to the bedroom doorway he went on, "Hello, how'a the good old slacker tonight?"

"Keith, that's exactly what I am," the mother protested with a deprecatory laugh.

"Better, huh?" he asked, kissing her.

"Why, I'm perfectly well! And Norah came home at noon to take care of me—made me so ashamed——"

Norah, in the kitchen, could hear the affectionate murmur rise and fall; then Keith went on to the bathroom, and was to be heard ejaculating, "Damn Monday!" after a brief trial of the hot-water faucet.

Other familiar sounds echoed through the house. Men were coming home tired; phonographs droned and radios were starting up everywhere. The Cahill children in the kitchen next door went into spasms of whooping, and downstairs somewhere there were angry words.

Mrs. Oliver heard it, and she looked into Norah's eyes as Norah put a tempting little tray before her, and gently shook her head.

"We'll be glad to get out of here," she said.

Eve came in, tired and jaded and drooping. She was very pale tonight, and said that the subway had given her a sort of headache, she thought. Like the others, she paid her mother a brief visit; dinner was served immediately.

"We eat in the kitchen?" Eve asked wearily, indifferently.

Keith's going out. He'a dressing."

Norah called, "Keith, hurry up," as she put the meat pie on the table. Eve poured herself a cup of strong tea.

"You're dead tonight, aren't you?" Norah asked sympathetically. The younger girl's eyes filled; she raised her head proudly.

"Oh, I don't know," she answered airily, but her voice faltered into silence and she devoted herself to her tea, looking as if she wanted to cry. Eve was fair and pretty and fastidious at nineteen; Norah's heart ached fiercely when she saw Eve's blue eyes redden and heard Eve's voice thicken, and realized—as she had had to realize so often of late—that Eve was unhappy.

Luckily, as Norah sat down to dinner, Keith came out and the conversation became general.

"You came home early?"

"About one."

"Want to go to a picture with me and Anne?"

Norah's face brightened; she had always adored her brother, and to have him so especially nice to her was heartening.

"Hadn't you better ask Anne?"

"No," Keith said, grinning, "we'll take a chance on Anne."

"I'm going to stay home anyway," Eve volunteered, and she and Norah presently had almost a fight about the dishes. Eve said, "Oh do, for heaven's sake, go on, Norah, there's nothing to this"; and Norah persisted, "no, I won't leave you all this to clear up."

It was a little after eight when she and Keith were down in the street walking toward Anne's house. Anne taught school; she was an idolized only daughter, who lived with her parents and grandparents in a much nicer neighborhood than the Olivers.

They went past the shabby apartment-house doorways and the lighted little cheap shops, along the dark Wintry sidewalks. When they got to the public library Keith said, "come in here a minute, Norah. I want to talk to you without Mother hearing us."

Norah entered with him in the big warm room, and they sat down in a secluded corner. Keith's manner by this time was causing his sister vague uneasiness.

"What's the matter, Keith?"

"Nothing's the matter," the boy said, with a reassuring laugh. Nothing ever really frightened Keith; Norah had complete faith in him. "But here's the thing," he said. "I've lost my job. This is the—what is it, the sixth? I got out on the first of December."

Norah's grey eyes widened; she turned a little pale.

"Keith! You don't!"

"Old Bayne told me last week, but I wouldn't tell Mother. I've only been there two years. It's all right—shucks, I'll get something else," Keith said easily.

"But listen," the girl said. "I didn't tell Mother either, or anyone. But I'm fired, too."

"For help's sake!"

"So Keith," the girl said anxiously, "what shall we do?"

"Fired, hey?" Keith mused. "Who said so?"

"Mr. Locox."

"What'd he say?"

"Oh, the usual bunk. They all liked me, and I had been entirely satisfactory. I notice they didn't fire Yvonne."

"She's the girl friend?"

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

YOUR THYROID GLAND DETERMINES YOUR APPEARANCE

"Have you too much activity of the thyroid gland in the neck?"

"Then the fires of life burn too fast and easily, the mind is too active in receiving impressions and meets life's troubles more than halfway, as shown by the staring eyes, the trembling hands, and the palpitating heart. Remove a portion of this thyroid gland and the wheels of life move with more smoothness and content.

"Possess too little thyroid gland: the fires of life become a smoulder, you are cold in body and mind, you are a dullard in feeling and appearance, slow in thought, word, and deed.

"Then take thyroid extract and once more feel—and look—human.

"The active principle of thyroid extract thus determines your weal or woe by having either the right amount, or too much or too little."

I am quoting the words of Lord Dawson, the King's physician, as part of his presidential address to the British Medical Association

This should explain to you why in the serious cases of goitre—inflammation of the thyroid gland—when rest, iodine, and even X-ray are of no avail, that surgery itself may not give satisfactory results.

You can see from Lord Dawson's statement that if just the right amount of the gland is removed by surgery the patient's heart will slow up to normal, there will be little if any trembling of the hands, and the digestive disturbances will disappear. If not enough is removed he will still retain some of these symptoms, and may feel discouraged.

But what happens when, in an endeavor to make it unnecessary to operate twice (remove one portion and then later remove another) the surgeon removes too much of the thyroid gland?

The patient becomes a little slow mentally and physically, may put on too much weight; in fact his whole appearance may change from a slender, nervous, active individual to one who is heavy, placid, and lazy.

As you know, this condition in the thyroid gland which makes surgery necessary may be caused by infection anywhere in the body—teeth, tonsils, gall bladder, intestine—or by some emotional disturbance.

It is gratifying to know that by removing any infective condition, and by mental and physical rest, most of these thyroid conditions can be cured.

LADYSMITH SMOKE COMES FROM AFAR

LADYSMITH, July 27.—The heavy pall of smoke hanging over this district for the past few days is attributed to the big slashing fire in the Youbou area at Cowichan Lake.

Rumors that the perennial blaze that has made the old Camp Nine area notorious, had again started up, are unfounded, and late this evening, despite the extreme fire hazard conditions prevailing, there are no fires in this vicinity.

Southwesterly winds have drifted the smoke from the Youbou fire throughout a wide section of the Island and on adjacent waters, causing some local uneasiness as to the origin of the smoke.

BRITISH ISRAELITES MEET

SOOKE, July 28.—A meeting of the British Israelites was largely attended on Thursday evening, in Sooke Hall. V. Richardson acted as chairman. Lieut.-Colonel Pringle, of Vancouver, gave an interesting address. He was accompanied by Mr. Snape and Mr. Laundy, of Victoria.
